MISS BLANCHE JEWETT WESTON.

Miss Blanche Jewett Weston
Victimized by A. A. Voss as Baron Von Waldeck — He is Arrested

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—August A. Voss who is said to have called himself Baron August Von Waldeck Hoffeld, was arrested in Brooklyn today on a charge of bigamy. Complaint was made against him by Catherine D. Voss, of Newark, N. J., who alleges that Voss married her several years ago and last July married Blanche Weston of Lowell, Mass. The latter is said to have been an actress and a member of a company which formerly played in "Nancy Brown."

Voss was at work in a jewelry store when arrested.

FINE HOME FOR SALE

On Centralville Heights

At a Great Bargain

The undersigned, being about to move to his new residence in Belvidere, offers his present home at 119 Fremont street, for sale. The premises consist of a large two and one-half story house with a fine stable on a nicely graded and stone curbed double lot of land containing 11,000 square feet. The house is in first-class condition throughout. It has twelve good rooms besides an attic room, pantry and modern bath room. The plumbing is modern and first class in every particular. The steam heating plant consists of a fine steel boiler, set in brick with ten radiators, piped in the best possible manner. Cellar bottom cemented and sub-drained. Walks and driveway concreted and lot front curbed with granite.

The stable is one of the finest on the hill. The carriage house is concreted and drained into the street sewer. There are three stalls (one a box stall) fine harness room and a finished room for a hostler, together with all the facilities necessary for a high grade stable. The location is slightly, airy and healthy and the street cars are within one minute's walk of the house. There are several nice fruit and shade trees and an excellent lawn.

To build such a home today with the prevailing price of labor and material would cost nearly double the sum for which I am willing to sell. Further particulars will be cheerfully given to anyone desirous of buying such a residence.

APPLY AT SUN OFFICE, TELEPHONE 269; OR ON THE PREMISES, TELEPHONE 408-4; OR AT NEW RESIDENCE, TELEPHONE 1850.

Very respectfully,
JOHN H. HARRINGTON.

Mary Mahoney, 55, is at the city hospital in a critical condition.

She was removed from her home in Davis street last Wednesday to the city hospital and her condition rather baffles the doctors and the police.

She is suffering from bruises, scratches and minor cuts that the police do not believe were self-inflicted. She was removed to the farm because of the information given the police and the local or charitable as to her condition. She was heard to moan in the apartment, which she occupied all alone and while she refused assistance from neighbors she maintained that she had not been assaulted.

She is resting comfortably at the city hospital and while she refuses to discuss the cause of her condition she intimates that it will be known "later on."

The case of James Duncan McMillan, charged with being connected with the Etta Johnson case, that of alleged criminal operation, was in police court today.

It was stated that the Johnson girl would not be able to leave the hospital for several days and it was necessary to continue the case. A continuance of one week was granted.

DRUNKEN OFFENDERS

There was one drunken offender in police court today who had a dismal story to relate. He had wandered from St. John's, Newfoundland, to a Yankee port and this is what he had to say:

"I've been a fisherman all my life and I've fished off the Newfoundland banks for years. I tried fishing and hearing so much about the good times over here I thought I'd try my luck, and do you know, Judge, I'd just like to be setting this net off that rugged coast this minute. I'm all out of harness here. I don't know what to do. I'd just as soon go to jail as to the best hotel in the city. I want to get back to Newfoundland, to smell the codfish and to know that I'm free but poor."

The man from the Island in the sea was allowed to go.

Five first offenders were fined $2 each and three were released.

DEATHS

MILLS—Hugh Mills, an old and highly respected subject and veteran of the Civil war, died at his home in Westford, Thursday night, at 11:25 o'clock, after a short illness.

Deceased was born in Paisley, Scotland, Aug. 27, 1827, and received his early education in the public schools of that place. He came to this country at an early age and learned the moulder's trade, at Manchester, N. H. At the time of the Civil war he enlisted with the Company K, First New Hampshire cavalry, Nov. 11, 1861, and saw four years of service, being discharged July 15, 1865. When discharged he bore the rank of first sergeant. On November 3, 1862, he married Miss Margaret Cass, who survives him. Five children were born to them, three daughters and two sons. Deceased came to Westford in 1884, and has been a prosperous farmer. Mr. Mills was a staunch republican, having voted the republican ticket since he became of age.

CARLETON—Died in this city, Sept. 14th, 1896, at his home, 26 Agassiz street, Eli H. Carleton, aged 77 years. Deceased was one of the first to enlist in the 6th Massachusetts regiment at the breaking out of the Civil war, and was with it during the memorable march through Baltimore, Md. He was also well known in musical circles. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Philip A. Carleton of North Tewksbury, Victor N. Carleton of Boston, and one brother, Francis L. Carleton of Vallejo, Cal., and six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Lowell cemetery chapel on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

LEE—Clifford J. Lee of Halifax, N. S., who was visiting his brother in this city, died last night at 63 Hastings street. Mr. Lee was 28 years of age and was spending his vacation in Lowell. He was head conductor of the Pullman dining service of the Intercolonial railway of Canada, and was a young man for whom the future held very bright prospects. His illness was of only a day or two and the suddenness of his death comes as a sad blow to those who knew him intimately. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ellen Lee, and three brothers. Deceased was visiting his brother, Frank J. Lee, the Central street tailor. The body will be sent to Montreal for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Collins of High street have returned home after a delightful stay at their cottage at Hampton beach.

START THE DAY RIGHT.

The Lowell conspiracy cases will come up in Cambridge next Tuesday for after Monday they will be given precedence over all other cases.

The case of Arthur W. McDonald, the chauffeur charged with manslaughter may be heard at this time, after the conspiracy cases. At first it was thought that owing to the absence of the defendant a counsel from the state it would be necessary to put the case over to the next term but it is understood that it may yet be tried during the present session.

No provision has been made for the Clark and Hayes case.

A Street Parade, Luncheon and Outing at Canobie Lake Makes up the Day's Program

De Molay Commandery, Knights Templar of Boston, one of the leading bodies of the Masonic order, in the city of Lowell, and an outing is being held by both at Canobie Lake Park. The local commandery met the visitors at the depot this morning and marched through the streets to the Rollaway rink in Third street, where luncheon was served. The Knights then marched to city hall where the line was received and seven speeches were made.

A year ago last May during the centennial of the Knights Templar of the state in Boston, De Molay commandery entertained the Phi Kappa commandery of this city and today's outing is held in recognition of the hospitality then extended.

Shortly after nine o'clock the members of the local commandery gathered in the Masonic temple and headed by the Lowell Military band marched through Merrimack, Central and Appleton streets to the Middlesex street station where De Molay commandery was received.

When the visitors stepped off the train and past commandery gathered in the commandery to receive the commandery and past commandery of the visiting commandery and the members of both commanderies were received.

The line was then formed the order being as follows:

The phalanx of peace under the flag William R. Row, Officer, Patrie, Dunlop, Robert C. Taft, standard bearer, Charles H. Robinson, sword bearer, Charles H. Robinson, warder, Arthur D. Francis, captain of guard, Edward T. Leonard, Benjamin W. Clement, Edgar H. Barker, organist, Irish A. Foster, conductor, John W. Crawford, organist, Dr. W. H. Jackson, Dr. Charles N. Taylor and Dr. W. N. Jones.

Little Redoubt hall of Waltham, in place, John M. Boston, London.

De Molay Commandery, Knights Templar, prominent commander, Christopher T. Whitcomb, capt. general, Isaac Chase, senior warden, John W. Crocker, junior warden, Edwin S. Woodberry, probate, Frank Gamble, treasurer, William O. Stone, recorder, Charles E. Morse, standard bearer, Hassell W. Gleason, sword bearer, Frank L. S. Newton, warder, Charles S. Soule, adjutant, Henry E. Lynde, grand, Herbert E. Fisher, Harry N. Kimball and John A. Taft, assistant grand.

Frank E. Taft, John D. Taylor, William W. Phillips, Nathaniel W. Little, Charles W. Kibbey, Edgar W. Evans, James Henry G. Brown, J. Henry Bean and Walter J. Carrier, armorer, James Deady.

The members of both commanderies presented a very fine appearance as they marched through the streets, the knights being resplendent in beautiful uniforms. The members of the local commandery wore the black uniform with silver trimmings, gray belted with jewels of the order, black chapeaux with black plumes and fatigue cap hanging from belt, and equipped with swords. The St. Knight was mounted, while the officers wore white dress.

The Molay commandery wore the same regalia as did the local commandery, except that the uniforms of the visitors were trimmed with gold and the plumes in their chapeaux were white.

After the line was formed the St. Knight marched through Appleton to Central streets to Hurd and into the Rollaway skating rink where light refreshments were served.

At 12:20 o'clock the line was reformed and marched through Hurd, Central, Merrimack to city hall where the commanderies were received and cars taken for Canobie Lake park.

It required seven cars to transport the knights to the park. Upon arrival there a genuine Rhode Island champagne was awaiting them. The bake had been prepared by five of the finest Rhode Island bakers to be found and was baked out of doors, but served in the large pavilion.

At the conclusion of the dinner sports of various kinds were indulged in. There were field and track sports, boxing, exhibition of Jim Jim by several Japan polo and in the art and other sports.

The outing trip will be made during the early hours of the evening, the visitors being escorted to the northern station by the members of Phi Kappa commandery.

One of the features of today's outing was the playing of a match entitled "Phi Kappa Commandery March" dedicated to the local commandery by Paul A. Phillips, the well known violinist and march composer.

Judge Sheldon in ordering the Huntington hall injunction case to the federal sitting of the supreme judicial court yesterday derived no follow-up.

This case came on at this sitting of the court for hearing on the return of the order that the respondents show cause why injunction should not issue against the hall for the petitioners, and thereupon, upon consideration thereof, it is ordered that the proceedings be completed by the first Monday of October next, and that the case be set down for hearing at the sitting of this court at Cambridge on the third Tuesday of said October, the respondents' counsel stipulating that in the meantime there shall be no expenditure of city money under the authority of said ordinance or of the order appropriate to the mentioned in said petition.

A horse belonging to John Manos, the East Merrimack street fruit dealer, took fright and ran away this morning. The horse was left standing in front of the store and started towards Merrimack square. Before reaching the square the wagon collided with another vehicle and was badly damaged. The horse was stopped in the square by Officer Ryan and aside from a cut on one of the rear legs was not injured.

HE WAS MURDERED

Fireman's Body Was Then Thrown Overboard

NARRAGANSETT RIVER, R. I., Sept. 14.—What is believed to be the body of a murdered fireman from a coastwise steamer was washed ashore on the breakwater near the Point Judith life saving station today. The body was badly decomposed, had been terribly eaten by fish, while the head, right arm and part of the left arm had evidently been hacked off, clinging to an old pair of shoes which the man wore was a large lot of yellow hair indicating that he worked in the boiler room of a steamboat.

The body was seen yesterday afternoon floating off the Point Judith breakwater by a fisherman who reported his find to the life saving station there. Today Louis Patten, a swimmer on the beach at Sand Hill Cove, saw the body floating in the water. The man was about five feet, six inches in height, weighed 150 pounds, wore blue overalls with a black and white striped shirt. The man also had on a pair of lace shoes and to the bottom of one of the shoes a big piece of yellow hair found mostly in the fire room of steamers. Coming as the body did from the direction of the sea, it is supposed that the man was probably murdered aboard ship and then thrown overboard.

TOBIN DEFEATED FR. MATHEW DAY

For Head of Shoe Workers Preparations on for October 10th

BROCKTON, Sept. 14.—John F. Tobin for seven years general president of the Boot and Shoe Workers union in the United States and Canada has been defeated for re-election by Thomas H. Hickey, business agent of the Brockton Jesters' union, according to returns received in this city today. The balloting was held yesterday and while it will be several days before the complete results are known, returns at hand today indicate a landslide for Hickey. For vice president the indications point towards the election of Charles P. Murray, of Lynn, a supporter of the so-called Hickey or radical wing of the union over Collins Lovely of St. Louis, one of the "Tobin supporters."

The election of Hickey, it is thought, will be of great significance to the shoe industry throughout this country and Canada and the manufacturers are awaiting the result with keen interest. One of the planks in the Hickey platform is "we will win or we will strike." The previous policy of the union has been "we will arbitrate."

THE FAYS

THEIR TRICKS WERE EXPOSED IN COURT

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—In the cold white unympathetic light of Justice Newburger's court room yesterday, the mystery and glamour which surrounded the personalities and performances of "The Marvelous Fays," high priest and high priestess of "Flammarig," disappeared like frost before a rising, scorching sun.

The Fays, who have had success in vaudeville, sought to restrain by injunction Herbert Lambourne and Louis Grant, their former managers, from using the name "The Fays" in any play they might produce. Counsel for the vaudeville team maintained that during the absence from the city of his clients, their rooms had been entered and several letters, including the "Fays' Dream Book," had been appropriated. The defendants, it was asserted, had started a show called "Flammarig," advertising it as one of the Fay shows.

Counsel for the defendants declared it was merely the purpose of his clients to expose the Fays' tricks. Then the Fay method was explained. It was Madame Fay's nightly custom to go into a "trance" on the stage and state and answer questions which had been written on a pad by persons in the audience. Each recital of this pad, it was asserted, took an impression of the question which was written on the first sheet. There second sheet of this pad, it was asserted, was telegraphic and the question and answer to a charge of attempted blackmail. The defendant was lodged by Dr. J. Clarence Sharp of 62 West Forty-sixth street, one of the visiting physicians of the Presbyterian hospital, who told the police that on September 11 he had received a letter threatening him with death if $25,000 was not immediately settled upon the writer's sister, Lily Flattery.

The letter, which was signed and bore the address of Flattery, said that Dr. Sharp had caused the ill health of the writer through a faulty operation performed upon him three years ago. The physician recognized Flattery at the police station as a patient upon whom he had operated at the Presbyterian hospital for a deformity of the nasal bones and who had been discharged perfectly cured.

When Detective Croxy went to arrest Flattery the man's sister told him that her brother's mind was unbalanced. Dr. Sharp concurred in the opinion when he saw Flattery at the police station.

PEACE DELEGATES ARRIVE. SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 14.—Delegates from Guatemala, Salvador and Honduras to the peace conference which is to be held here as a result of the signing of a treaty of peace on board the United States cruiser Maryland last July, have arrived and have been accorded an official welcome. The conference probably will begin Sept. 25.

MAN IS HELD ON BLACKMAIL CHARGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Alfred J. Flattery, 28 years old, who lives at 238 East Fifty-second street, was arrested last night on a charge of attempted blackmail. The complaint was lodged by Dr. J. Clarence Sharp of 62 West Forty-sixth street, one of the visiting physicians of the Presbyterian hospital, who told the police that on September 11 he had received a letter threatening him with death if $25,000 was not immediately settled upon the writer's sister, Lily Flattery.

The letter, which was signed and bore the address of Flattery, said that Dr. Sharp had caused the ill health of the writer through a faulty operation performed upon him three years ago. ## Loan Order Found to be Improperly Drawn

Mayor Casey has discovered irregularities in the appropriation and loan order of $50,000 for the extension of the water system in the recently annexed portion of Tewksbury, and while he is heartily in favor of the extension he has been compelled to refuse to sign either paper owing to their incorrectness.

Shortly after the annexation of a portion of Tewksbury, the water board, asking for water for domestic and fire purposes. While the construction of the water main in that section of the city owing to ledge and water has cost a great deal of money and will cost a great deal more, all of the work will be paid for in time by the water taking.

Union after petition was passed by the board and the work commenced, but after $5,000 had been expended it was decided that the water department could not go ahead much further without asking for a loan. Therefore the board held a meeting and asked for the appropriation of $10,000 which was the amount at the beginning of the year and also a loan for $25,000 making a total of $35,000, which sum it was believed would cover the entire cost of construction.

The orders were passed through the board of aldermen and Mayor Casey who was anxious that the work should continue called a special meeting of the common council and that body voted favorable in the matter.

The documents were then handed to the mayor for his approval and in passing them he noticed that the order for $35,000 had no provision for the return to the regular appropriation of the $15,000 which has been expended so far, while the order for $25,000 does not provide for paying the interest.

Both documents will be sent back to the water board and as soon as they are correctly drawn the mayor will affix his signature.

In the meantime Mayor Casey has notified the acting head of the water department to continue the men working on the mains and pipes in Weymouth and South Lowell.

WANTS HIGHER STANDARD. Mayor Casey has filed with the city clerk a communication addressed to the city council recommending the maintenance of the department of scales of weights and measures on a higher standard of efficiency and also recommends that the city sealer be compensated with a salary of not less than $1,000 per year, the present salary being but $500.

The communication is as follows: "To the City Council, Sept. 14, 1906. Gentlemen:—I desire to notify the members of the city council that the department of scales of weights and measures should be maintained on a higher standard of efficiency, and that the city sealer should be compensated with a salary of not less than $1,000 per year, the present salary being but $500."

Many scales showed no evidence of having been sealed in recent years, and others not to have been sealed within twenty months.

WEIGHTS, LIQUID AND DRY MEASURES. With a few exceptions none of these articles examined showed seals, or other evidence of inspection.

LINEAR MEASURES. No inspection is made of the yard sticks and other linear measures used by dealers, etc.

MILK JARS. Milk jars and bottles are not tested for capacity, although thousands of them are in daily use throughout the city.

With one exception ice scales were found on ice wagons, but in no instance had they been tested and sealed.

A more accurate system as to weighing and sale of coal should be inaugurated.

The department is not of sufficient size and importance at present to compel a strict enforcement of all laws relating to the duties of the sealer of weights and measures. The city sealer receives a salary of $500 per annum. The city of Worcester pays the city sealer $1,000 and a deputy sealer a salary of $500.

Under the provisions of Section 34, Chapter 62, of the Revised Laws the sealer is obliged to collect a certain fee for inspection which is turned into the city treasury. The more complete the inspection that is made, the greater is the revenue derived, and better protection is given to the public.

I would respectfully recommend that the city sealer be compensated with a salary of not less than $1,000, he to give all his time to the service of the city (the revenue of the department will more than offset the amount of the salary), and that this communication be referred to the committee on ordinances and legislation for the purpose of formulating an ordinance along the lines suggested.

Respectfully submitted, JAMES B. CASEY, Mayor.

STREET WORK. Supt. Morse of the street department is hustling along the street work at the present time and he has many big jobs on his hands. He intends to do something to clear the street, from Cross to Pawtucket street as soon as possible for the street is in a dangerous condition. The controversy between the mayor and the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. relative to the latter company paying a portion of the expenses of repair, however, has delayed him in commencing the work.

Thorndike street will be put in good condition in a short time. New gutters have been laid, edge stones have been straightened and the hill has been dug out and leveled for the heavy stone for the foundation. The traffic on this strip of street is as great if not greater than any strip of street of a similar size in the city. Teamsters with heavy loads have been in the habihome, Bay State court, off West Fourth street, after a short illness, aged 66 years, four months and two days. He leaves besides his wife one son, Eli Ward, D.D., of this city.

CONNELL. Dennis O'Connell died at his home in Roxbury this morning at the age of 66 years. He was survived by a widow, Catherine, two sons, Daniel A. of Roxbury and John A. of East Weymouth, and a daughter, John O'Connell of Roxbury. The funeral is tomorrow, which will be in charge of the Undertaker. Burial will be in the Mount Pleasant cemetery.

FUNERALS

FLANAGAN. The funeral of Mrs. Mary Flanagan took place this morning from her late home, 16 Adams avenue, and was held at 11 o'clock. The funeral service was held at St. Patrick's church where high mass of requiem was sung at 10 o'clock by Rev. P. McHugh. The choir under the direction of M. J. Johnson rendered Schubert's requiem mass. At the offertory Mr. Frank McCarthy rendered "Teu Saluator Mundi." At the conclusion of mass Mrs. Alice Murphy presided. "The Wives a Tear from Every Eye." As the church was being broken down the choir sang the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee." The bearers were Messrs. J. Howe, N. Thorne, J. Doyle, M. Savage, T. Osborne and E. Bradley. The interment was in St. Peter's cemetery in charge of Undertakers Mollay.

CHELMSFORD

A social gathering was entertained on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. C. Fletcher on Bedford street. The guests consisted of many former neighbors of the hostess in Tewksbury, and this meeting has become an annual event. A varied and delicious luncheon was served at noon in the evening.

CUT BY GLASS

Thomas Fitzpatrick, residing in the Draper Navy Yard, sustained a wound on the wrist today as a result of falling through a pane of glass. Four stitches were taken in the wound by the surgeon at the Emergency hospital.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The board of health will hold a meeting in the town hall Tuesday evening of next week.

James B. McQuinn has returned home from Tewksbury, Pa., where he has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Michael J. Gallagher.

Sgt. David Higgins of the town high ways is repairing Edwards avenue, where it joins Main street.

Some of the new pipes for the new water system has arrived and work will be soon started on the laying of the lines.

WIFE'S PROMISE TO SAVE BRIDE

Will Not Kill for Man Says He Became a Swindler

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Nellie Paul, who was haled before the West Side court yesterday by her husband, William Paul, for failing to housewife him and Mrs. Fannie White in broad way last week, explained last night why she had promised Magistrate Wadsworth not to carry out her plan to kill the couple, at least for a week, on the advice of the court she had agreed not to molest them for seven days and was pardoned until September 24. The husband had asked that she be put under bonds to keep the peace.

When she appeared before the court for the first time, she was asked for a bond for the payment of a body attachment to be paid in full for six months.

"When I told the court that I was ready to shoot that white woman on sight, even if I had to go to the chair for it, I meant just what I said," Mrs. Paul declared, "but the judge told me in better way than of the difficulty of my own mind. I have been a faithful wife to this man, but some months ago he met her, and his affections turned."

"He entered partnership with her sister, Mrs. Foster, in a military store, at No. 226 Broadway, and didn't come home until the early hours of the morning, giving extra work as an excuse. But I learned that his evenings were really spent with the white woman, who lives with her two little daughters and the Foster's, at No. 219 West Eighty-third street."

"Neighbors near that hat sympathized with me, and one woman let me look from her room into the apartment where my husband was with the white woman one night. There I got proof for absolute divorce."

"I am not looking for a divorce, for what a fool I'd be to let him get just what he wants. I want to separate him from that woman, and I'll do it or die in the attempt."

"The Pauls have one son, eighteen years old, who has been boarding with the mother at No. 14 East Ninety-sixth street, and whom Mrs. Paul says her husband has been trying to estrange."

Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand W. Dixon of 16 Middlesex street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a baby girl born Sept. 10th.

CRIES OUT GUILT

Slayer Has Made a Confession

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—In the midst of the Richmond County Prohibition convention, at Mariner's Harbor, last night, there dashed an excited man whose face was contorted and who waved his hands and screamed:

"Oh, my God, forgive me for my sin. I am a murderer. I have broken up my home, beaten my wife and children. I have shot my mother-in-law and the officers of the law, and I have killed an innocent man. Unless I am forgiven I have nothing to live for. God, forgive me or strike me dead now."

When the man finished his prayer, and fell over against the platform, several delegates sprang forward, thinking him intoxicated or demented, but the Rev. Mr. Howard recognized him as Henry Dean, a man whom he knew to be wanted by the police, and he stepped down from the platform, raised the man to his feet and with the aid of another minister carried him to a drug store across the way. There, while a policeman was being summoned, Mr. Howard soothed the man and asked him to confess his sin in all details.

At length, sobbing and crying, Dean confessed that it was he who on a stormy night last March murdered the man whose body was found upon the Fresh Kills trestle. The body had never been identified. Dean had not even been suspected in connection with the murder, and the murder had long since gone down among the mysteries of unfaithfulness.

BOSTON COPPER MARKET. BOSTON, Sept. 14.—There was no abnormal activity in the vicinity and strength of the copper shares today. Butte Copper was the early feature, advancing on large transactions to 24 up 1/4 on having largely for New York account. Trading continued actively distributed. Gold Dominion continued in good request, advancing to 45 1/4 up 1/4.

Man Who Wouldn't Strike Was Struck

Just because John Brosnikos promised to strike and didn't strike, Michael Yukus struck John.

There was a strike in the Tremont & Suffolk mills in August. The spinners were on strike. John Brosnikos promised to join the strikers and to land his influence in calling out as many as he could. John did do a little missionary work in that line but when it came to a showing of hands he remained in while the others went out and just for that Michael gave him "a punk in the eye."

Michael Yukus was arrested this afternoon by Corporation Detective X-ray and Special Officer Teagh. The complaint was dated August 31. Michael will be arraigned in police court tomorrow morning.

Mad Rush to See the President's Daughter — Almost a Panic at Unveiling of McKinley Statue — Exercises Had to be Postponed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 15.—With panic threatened a crowd of 50,000 persons surging about a stand erected in the capital grounds, frantic to secure a glimpse of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the president's daughter, the unveiling exercises arranged for the unveiling of a statue of William McKinley yesterday afternoon were suddenly postponed until last night after the statue of the martyred president had been hurriedly unveiled by Mrs. Longworth.

Family Cares

This Information May be of Value to Many a Mother in Lowell.

When there is added to the many cares inseparable from the rearing of children that affliction of weakness of the kidneys and auxiliary organs, the mother's lot is far from a happy one. This condition can be quickly changed and absolutely cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. When this is known the mother's burden will be lighter and her home happier.

Mrs. J. E. Hatch, of 45 Horton st., Lowell, Mass., says: "I gave a statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago, telling what great benefit one of my sons had found from their use. He had been troubled with a weakness of the bladder. I was told of Doan's Kidney Pills by a friend and I got a box at Ellingwood & Co's drug store. From the relief obtained they proved to be deserving of everything said in their favor. I can now say what I could not in my first statement, and that is that the cure has been permanent. I consider it a blessing to mothers who have children suffering from this annoying trouble to know what to do to effect a cure. My advice is, use Doan's Kidney Pills for they can be depended upon."

trampled on and had to be removed in an ambulance. Both will recover.

Throughout the exciting scenes Mrs. Longworth remained cool and self-possessed, but afterwards she said that it was the worst crush she had ever seen.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth had an exciting experience in escaping from the excited crowds. From the speakers' stand they went through a window overlooking the platform into the governor's office but they were scarcely inside when the people began to surge through the doors from the corridors, and the office was quickly filled.

Congressman Longworth finally fought a way out for his wife from the capital and across Broad street into the Outlook building. There they remained until the police cleared away for a carriage which took the congressman and his wife to the hotel. Later the Longworths took a train for Cincinnati.

The committee on arrangements had expected an enormous crowd but in view of the solemnity and dignity of the occasion the committee believed that the crowd would be easily kept in restraint. Under ordinary circumstances the police arrangements would have been adequate but the officers quickly found they were powerless to cope with the crowd. Tiers of seats had been constructed across the entire west front of the capital with the speakers' stand in the center. Four thousand tickets were issued for these seats to invited guests, and all seats were occupied.

The McKinley monument stands at the west entrance to the ground facing the street and the crowd was packed into this space between the speakers' stand and the monument. The exercises began at 2:30 o'clock.

As a band was playing an overture, women in the crowd next to the speakers' stand began to scream and cry for help on account of the crush. Several women fainted and were carried to the stand. Rev. Washington Gladden rose to deliver the invocation, but he had spoken only a few sentences when the roar of voices forced him to stop.

Gov. Harris then attempted to quiet the crowd. "Keep back," he shouted. "You are crushing the people in front to death."

The governor's voice could not be heard twenty feet away on account of the din. The commotion then became so alarming that those on the stand asked Mrs. Longworth to come forward in the hope that a glimpse of her might satisfy the crowd.

She came to the front of the stand and the crush became almost a stampede. It was then decided to unveil the statue at once. Mrs. Longworth pulled a ribbon, which drew aside the flags covering the statue. A man who stood on another's shoulder grasped the ribbons and they were quickly torn into fragments by the seekers. The crash was stopped for a few minutes, but as Mrs. Longworth sat down it was renewed and she again went to the front of the platform and bowed to the throng. The committee on arrangements having decided to defer the unveiling until evening allowed Mrs. Longworth to retire from the platform and remain at the change of program. The crowd then dispersed.

The program of exercises was carried out as arranged last night. The unveiling of the statue was held, with people, Gov. Harris presided. The speakers were Mrs. E. D. May, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, John W. Doolittle, United States senator from Virginia, Gen. Joseph McKay of Brooklyn, N. Y., national commander of the United States Army of the Republic, Mrs. McKay's niece, unable to attend the dedicatory exercises but who was represented by her niece Mrs. Ida McKinley.

Justice Peck spoke as follows: "In the history of our country, no man has been so loved and so revered as William McKinley. His life was a life of self-sacrifice and devotion to the public good. He was a man of high character and high ability, and his death was a great loss to our country. We are gathered here today to honor his memory and to dedicate this statue to his memory. Let us strive to be worthy of his example and to follow in his footsteps."

So gentle, kind and true had been this life that not even his slaves could strike at him. With this gentleness what mighty strength. Death needs all its own terms. The man as he is, then stands unveiled. With so much to make life dear, the gentleman did not follow when the summons came. Looking forward to the day when he would be free of the affection of his countrymen and the respect of the world, holding the hand of his loved companion who well had over been the first purpose of his life, and whose returning strength had made the last summer one of his brightest, he entered the shadow of death with no murmur at his fate, leaving on the red and stark which had comforted his father, died as he had lived, in humble submission to the will of God.

"He lives in the love of his countrymen. His memory grows brighter with the years. He lives in the loneliness of his example at every hand where succeeding generations shall record the strength and beauty of his character and tell again the story of his life."

BABE WAS KILLED

Runaway Carriage Hit by Car

NORWICH, Sept. 14. A car which left East Norwich about five minutes before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bound for Norwich and 18 o'clock ran into and overturned a baby carriage on Washington street near Mayfield, throwing the infant to the track and severing the head from the body.

The car was turning at its normal rate of speed. To the right of the track was a row of trees and shrubbery, which concealed a roadway leading from the nearby house of Louis Sykes, a Russian. The house stands a little off Washington street on a high hill.

A boy and a little girl were pushing their brother down hill, letting the carriage run free at intervals.

The carriage got away, running onto the track.

Before the motor man knew what had happened the car struck the carriage, pushing it a long distance. The child went under the car and his head and one arm were torn off.

The growth and prosperity of our city's business houses are always of interest to our readers, and particularly so at the present time when the business community are to be made by the New York Clock & Sulf Co., 12 John street.

For the past seventeen years this concern has enjoyed a well deserved place in the confidence of the people of the city of Lowell as well as of the surrounding country.

It was in September, 1889, that the late John A. Storey commenced business at the above location under the firm name New York Clock & Sulf Co., and until the time of his death, three years ago, he enjoyed an enviable reputation for his keen and straightforward business methods.

A few months before Mr. Storey's death he sold the business to his brother, Frank R. Storey of Brockton, Mass., who, with the late John A. Storey, had been the chief of the business under the management of Mr. Walter H. Emmott, who is well and favorably known here, having been born and educated in Lowell.

The combined efforts of Mr. Emmott and the firm, with their practice in the market, as large dealers, having at that time found other sales, built up a still larger business than the one ever enjoyed, and now they are to become one of the most prominent, in fact the largest clock and sulf stores outside of Boston. Having leased their present location for a long time of years, and purchased the Ayer block adjoining it, they propose taking down the partitions and remodeling the front and making it into a large, modern, and in every way up-to-date and attractive store. The staff of help which has always been cordial and pleasant is to be increased, and a larger and better stock of goods than ever will be carried. When this enterprising concern has made this change, which will be during the coming summer, there will be no need of any woman, with the well-tailored dress, as we understand this concern buys of the best houses in the country. They are considered the largest dress-makers of New York, having, with the alterations here, five large specialty stores. Up to the present time Lowell has been their smallest but by this move they hope to place it on par with their other cities.

An interesting feature from a Lowell point of view is that the heads of the five different stores are graduates of the State of John street.

The five stores, with their locations are as follows: Charles A. Webb of Providence, R. I., New York Clock & Sulf Co., Fall River; Charles A. Webb of New Bedford; Storey & Co., Brockton; and the New York Clock & Sulf Co., John street, this city.

GOING TO CUBA

SECRETARY TAFT AND BACON TO MAKE TRIP.

OYSTER HAY, Sept. 15.—After a post-travel conference with Secretaries Taft, Bacon and Bonaparte, representing the war, state and navy departments, President Roosevelt had night addressed an important communication to Cuba and arranged to send Secy. Taft and Secy. Bacon to that island on Sunday to make a thorough investigation of conditions there and lend their influence to restore peace.

The communication is addressed to the Cuban minister to the United States, Senor Quintana. It is an impassioned plea to Cuba to realize her responsibility as a self-governing republic and to restore peace in the island. Her attention is called to no uncertain language to the responsibility which the United States bears to the island and the certainty that such responsibility will necessarily be exercised should peace not be preserved.

The president says he has certain information that the peace of the island is now menaced and that American property has been destroyed.

Secretaries Taft and Bacon will leave for Cuba Sunday. They will go by rail to Key West, Fla., and from there the journey to Havana will be completed on a naval vessel, probably the cruiser De Moines.

The conference which began in the Cuban declaration began at Sagamore Hill shortly after three o'clock yesterday afternoon and continued until 10 o'clock last night. At its conclusion secretaries Taft, Bonaparte and Bacon left for New York and will go to Washington today.

Secretary Taft said as he left Oyster Hay that he had no idea as to the length of his visit to Cuba. He intimated that there would be no haste in the investigation which would be made there. Aside from this information no discussion will be divulged by those attending the conference, the statement being made that the better of the president was intended to cover the subject.

Speaking of the announcement Senor Quintana made this statement to The Associated Press.

"I regard the visit of the Secretary of War Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon to Havana at this time as of the greatest importance. Knowing that these American officials have the good of the Cuban government at heart I feel assured that good will result from their visit to our capital."

CONSIDERS VISIT OF GREATEST IMPORTANCE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Senor Don Arturo Padro Y Alameda charged defiance of the Cuban legation when apprized by the Associated Press last night that Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon would leave on Sunday for Cuba immediately to make the announcement of the president's intention to send them to his government.

Padro made this statement to The Associated Press.

"I regard the visit of the Secretary of War Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon to Havana at this time as of the greatest importance. Knowing that these American officials have the good of the Cuban government at heart I feel assured that good will result from their visit to our capital."

Handcar Plunged Over Bridge

CLEVELAND, Sept. 15.—A special train from Toledo to the Plain Dealer says, "Running without permission a handcar, loaded with trackmen, of the Wheeling and Lake Erie road, ran off an open draw over the Mammot bridge last night and everyone on the car was drowned. The number of men on the car is said to have been twelve. Six for two bodies have been recovered. Owing to the fact that the men took the car from a point some miles from Toledo where work is being done, identification of the missing men has not been learned."

Lawrence Man Challenges Local Wrestlers

The following letter from Jim Gilligan, the well known Lawrence wrestler, is self-explanatory.

Lawrence, Sept. 13.

Sporting Editor of The Sun:

Dear Sir: I was handed a clipping from The Sun in which Nelson Dominick challenges my 160-pound man in Lowell or vicinity. I will be at the Lowell Sun office Saturday, Sept. 15, at 7 o'clock, at which time I am willing to make a deposit for a match with Nelson Dominick or Proctor, the Greek, on any 160-pound man in Lowell or vicinity. In behalf of one of my pupils, who has yet to make his first public appearance.

Trusting you will make this announcement and hoping to meet him tomorrow or the Greek at your office Saturday night, I remain, Respectfully yours,

JAMES GILLIGAN,

ARBITRATION BOARD SETTLES LONGSHOREMEN'S TROUBLE.

BOSTON, Sept. 15. All danger of a general strike of longshoremen and other freight handlers in this city is said to be averted by the decision made last night by the board of arbitration which was given authority to settle the differences. The decision of the board states that the strike of the longshoremen at the Metropolitan Steamship company's wharf was in violation of all trade union principles and that the application which threatened to develop into a general strike was due to the fact that the strikers had declined two previous offers of arbitration.

There were 100 men who struck at the Metropolitan wharves several weeks ago because of the discharge of some union men and other grievances.

WHO'S MASTERS?

Things must have come to a pretty pass with the democratic party when a man like Masters, whoever he may be, sets himself up as a candidate for governor. Inasmuch as Masters is unknown in democratic politics in Massachusetts it would be foolish to inquire further into his standing or his identity.

BRADFORD A CANDIDATE

Gamaliel Bradford has been nominating himself as a citizens' candidate for governor for years past and this year comes out as an independent candidate on a platform of state reforms which he says can come only from the initiative of the governor. It takes 1000 signatures to the petition of an independent candidate but as the signers are not obliged to vote for the candidate whose petition they sign, there is little doubt that Gamaliel will secure the necessary number. It would not be surprising to find him contesting with Moran for the democratic nomination.

TAKE MR. O'SULLIVAN'S ADVICE.

The advice given by Humphrey O'Sullivan, member of the democratic state committee to send unemployed delegates to the convention is all right. It would be undemocratic and a betrayal of the party to pledge the delegates to Moran. After all the perplexity and turmoil over finding a candidate for governor if the delegates be unpledged the convention may solve the difficulty in a manner that will save the party's honor and prevent it from being made the tail to the Moran kite.

THE STEEL TRUST EXTORTION.

The steel trust is said to be over charging the government for rails for the Panama canal. The commission is to appeal to President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft and there is a prospect that this grasping combination may lose this business. The law gives the government the right to purchase supplies for the canal abroad should it be shown that exorbitant prices are charged at home. But what a conscienceless lot of sharks this steel trust is made up of any way.—Foster's Daily Democrat.

The Democrat is right in so characterizing the steel trust and this combine has been so characterized by every democratic paper in the country. But in the final analysis of this question it is not clear that the republican tariff and Dingley law which is held sacred by the standard-bearers has been responsible for all the oppressive extortions effected by this monopoly?

THE PRODUCTION OF FISH.

The Fisheries Commission last year distributed nearly 2,500,000,000 fish. This is one of the most important works carried on by the government. Two billion fish is quite a good many but it is not near what it should be. Ten times that number might be distributed, and the cost could hardly be noticed in the vast appropriations made by congress. In the science of pisciculture it is well known that the percentage of small fish which reach maturity is very small.—Portland Express.

The money expended in distributing fish is certainly better spent than the money laid out on seeds. Still some congressmen are greatly attached to the distribution of seeds at the government's expense as it is the only way in which they can remind the farmers and householders that they have given them a single thought during the entire session. The government might do much more in the fish line and much more of the little fishes would live if our rivers and lakes were not so badly polluted. Judging from the poor success of some of our anglers who go to neighboring lakes and ponds, one would be induced to inquire what becomes of all these government fish since it is so difficult to catch them. The little fish do not cost much but fish culture is an art upon which the people are quite ignorant. The government in sending out fish for stocking rivers and ponds should see that the work is entrusted to skilled hands. A crop of 20,000,000,000 fish would not be too great for the waters of the United States. Now that the price of meat has attained the robbery stage it would be well to increase the production of fish as much as possible.

VERDICT THAT PLEASES AUTOISTS.

The verdict in a Dedham court in favor of an autoist that had exceeded the speed limit appears quite reasonable. While it was proven that the legal limit was exceeded, it was proven also that the way was clear and that there was no danger of public traffic, or to life or property. That being so the jury decided in favor of the defendant. Over this decision there is considerable rejoicing among automobilists but they will make a mistake if they think they are warranted under such a finding to exceed the speed limit in towns and cities.

The finding applies to that case alone and a thousand cases might arise without showing one that would be precisely similar.

On the Dylham road where this machine was timed there could be no cross streets from which another automobile, wagon or bicycle might shoot out to collide with that on the main line. Such a condition would make the high speed dangerous and would not warrant such a verdict. The decision, however, will prevent country towns from trapping autoists on country roads where the way is clear on both sides for a considerable distance ahead and where no danger can arise from any rate of speed, however great. The superior court will evidently tolerate no persecution of autoists nor impose penalties merely for technical violation of the law.

IMPORTANT DUTY INCIDENT UPON VOTERS.

Now that the primaries are approaching, it is in order to give the same advice that is dished out year after year only to be approved and instantly forgotten. Still we shall at the risk of wasting words take the liberty of repeating that the success of our government in city and state depends upon the wise choice of candidates at the primaries. If the offices are narrowed down to two men in each particular case with neither man qualified what can the voters do on election day? What can they do but take a choice of evils in voting for one of the two.

The only way to prevent this is to get good men to allow their names to be used and then to attend the primaries to see that these men be nominated. It takes some time to get the candidacy of any man properly before the voters, but once this is done the next thing is to go to the primaries and elect him.

Now that the primaries are conducted with as much fairness as an election there is no justification for any man remaining away from the primaries. It was formerly alleged and with good reason that it was useless for decent men to go to the caucuses as the machine nominated the candidates regardless of the votes cast. That is no longer possible. The local law and the joint primaries have put an end to such political robbery. It is to be hoped, therefore, that every voter who desires better government will go to the primaries and assist in turning down unsuitable men and in the selection of the best men among the candidates.

The following communication has been received from a sick man in Bridge Street.

Seen and Heard Man. I wish you would say a word in your column in order that it may reach the eye or ear of Charlie Moore, superintendent of streets. He has about fifteen teams engaged in hauling stone from the ledge in Dragnet. About all of the teams pass back and forth through Bridge Street. I would suggest that it would be a good idea for the teams to use Hampshire, Third, Fourth and West Fifth Streets. It would be much easier on the horses, feet and it would do away with the almost constant din on Bridge Street. I have been confined to the house for the last few weeks and the noise made by these teams is rather annoying. I am speaking for my neighbors as well as myself.

SALEM'S EX-MAYOR ABRAIGNEL IN COURT.

SALEM, Sept. 15.—In the district court yesterday afternoon the case of ex-Mayor John F. Hurley, charged with violation of the liquor law, was on motion of counsel for the government, continued until next Wednesday. This case has already attracted widespread attention.

Mr. Hurley claims that the raid was one of a series carried out by the police department for the purpose of persecuting him. He has planned to show contempt on one part of some of the city officials and in court yesterday was in readiness for trial.

The continuation of the case was attributed to the absence of a chemist who had been summoned by the government.

Electric Light Co. Wants to Issue Stock

Asks State Commissioners for Authority to Issue $325,000 New Stock — Public Hearing Held on Matter Yesterday

The Lowell Electric Light Company wants to increase its capital stock to the extent of $325,000, for the purpose of paying its floating debt and building additions to its plant.

To get such authority the company petitioned the gas and electric light commissioners and were given a public hearing at the office of the commissioners yesterday.

Vice President Frederick S. Pratt appeared for the company and told the board that the present capital stock is $250,000 and that the increase is an exact growth of 50 per cent. of the last issue of 500 shares he said that all but six were taken up by the old stockholders.

Maintenance charges had been high enough, 10 per cent. of the gross earnings to cover the depreciation of the plant. The past year the gross earnings had been $108,885.20 and the operating expenses $79,299.33. The company has a surplus of $117,851.89 and sinking funds amounting to $17,371.

The new construction to date, Mr. Pratt said, totaled up to $70,231.75. The large items being extension of overhead and underground systems, $228; 60 transformers, $229.62; arc lamps, $211.50; meters, $171.54; Lakeview extension, $178.17.

The company proposes to increase its station and there is little space now in that section of the city.

It was stated that the officials had looked over the city and thought seriously of going to another part of the city. Finally, however, adjacent property to the amount of 42,462 square feet was purchased at a cost of $10,231, including $4 of attorneys' fees, in looking up titles, etc.

The company is now paying $1000 a year for water. It has now purchased a right to take water from the Concord river for $1500.

Regarding further improvements Mr. Pratt said that by the end of the year the plant will be up to the limit of the capacity. The larger items of the contemplated additions which total $198,041.75 were given by Mr. Pratt as follows:

Motors, transfers and short extensions to end of year, $4500.
Power line, $1000.
Water meters, $500.
Middlesex Village extension, $1200.
North Chelmsford extension, $245.
Grounding of secondary line, $500.
Underground cables now being installed, $31,753.
Red H. P. boilers, $29,000.
Stock, $12,840.

Extension to buildings, $60,000.
Local pockets, $27,000.
Turbines, $50,000.
Drain extension, $6750.
Station for former business, $10,540.
To carry out agreement with the Lowell Electric Light Company, $35,000.

The last price of stock fixed by the board was at $145 per share.

With such a large amount going on the market at once there might be a decrease. On the whole, however, he considered the price a fair one. There had been sales of a few shares at about $200 but this was the price for a few shares only.

Regarding the secondary groundings, Mr. Pratt said it was being done very thoroughly. The soil in Lowell was so dry that when possible connection with a water pipe is sought to secure a better ground. There has been a feeling in opposition to this in the city though he believed it did the pipes no harm.

Chairman Forrest Parker said it was now admitted that there was no harm in doing this.

Mr. Pratt said permission had only been recently secured in Lowell.

In places where there is no water pipes an excavation is made to the water line and a copper plate put in.

In regard to the putting wires on the poles of the Boston & Northern Street Railway company Mr. Pratt said they had a contract with the company regarding the matter.

General Street of the board asked if this new work to a large extent was not being done by the regular force of employees and how it was kept account of. Mr. Pratt explained the system of bookkeeping and there was no likelihood of a changing to a money account.

Questions regarding several items were asked and as there was no opposition the board closed the hearing and took the matter under consideration.

PORTO RICO

STATEMENT SHOWING THE ### GROWTH IN COMMERCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Exports from Porto Rico in the fiscal year just ended were practically twice as great in value as in any year under Spanish rule and about 25 per cent. greater than in any previous year under American rule. The total value of the merchandise sent out of the island in the fiscal year 1906 was 20,110,000 dollars, against 13,410,000 in the immediately preceding year, while the highest figures in any year under Spanish rule was 12,410,000, or practically one-half of the figure of the fiscal year 1906.

This statement, by which it is possible to accurately compare the value of exports in 1906 with that of earlier years, is the result of an analysis of the commerce made by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, in which analysis the official figures of exports from 1898 to 1899 are reduced to a gold basis. Official statements of the exports of Porto Rico made prior to American control and the introduction of American currency were stated in silver currency, the value of which fluctuated greatly from year to year and month to month. Recently the bureau of statistics obtained from Porto Rico a statement of the average monthly exchange value of the peso during a long term of years, and by an application of this to the stated value in pesos, is able to present a statement of the gold value of the merchandise exported from the island during a long term of years.

The total value of exports ranged from 8 to 12 million dollars during the period from 1890 to 1898, the year of occupation by the United States, the highest figures stated in gold values being in 1892, $12,750,000, and the lowest figure $5,238,332, in 1895. In 1899, following the losses in crop-producing power resulting from the hurricane, the exports fell to about 6 million dollars. In 1904 they were nearly 9 millions, in 1905 12,410,000, in 1906 20,110,000, in 1907 15,410,000, in 1908 14,410,000, and in 1909, as above indicated, 23,410,000. These figures of "exports" include, of course, the shipments to the United States, which, although not technically exports under the present relations of Porto Rico to the United States, are included in this general statement of the value of merchandise shipped out of the island.

This increase of practically 100 per cent. in the value of merchandise shipped out of the island as compared with the best years under Spanish rule, occurs chiefly in sugar and manufactures of tobacco. The quantity of sugar sent out of the island never reached as much as 100 thousand tons prior to 1903. In the fiscal year 1906 it was 104 thousand tons, in 1907 115 thousand tons, in the fiscal year 1908 about 150 thousand tons, and in the present year will probably exceed 20 thousand tons. The value of sugar exported never had once reached the 7-million-dollar line until the year 1901, when it was practically 7,2 millions, in the fiscal year 1904, 8,2 millions, in 1906 practically 12 millions, and in 1908 a little more than 11 millions, or practically double that of the banner year under Spanish occupation.

The value of cigars and cigarettes sent out of the island, which never reached a million dollars until recently, was in 1904 about 12 millions, in 1905 a little over 2 millions, and in the fiscal year 1906 3 million dollars.

Coffee exports, which averaged from 3 to 6 million dollars per year during the decade prior to occupation by the United States, were greatly reduced by reason of the destruction of the coffee plantations by the hurricane of 1898, and the export value fell to about 3 million dollars per annum, the total value of the coffee shipped out of the island in the fiscal year just ended being about 3,4 million dollars, against a little less than 2 millions in 1905 and a little over 3 1/2 millions in 1901.

Of the 23,4 million dollars' worth of merchandise sent out of the island in the fiscal year 1906, 19 million dollars' worth was sent to the United States, 1 1/2 million dollars to the United Kingdom, three-fourths of a million to Spain, one-fourth of a million to Germany, Hungary, the total value of merchandise shipped to foreign countries being in round terms 4 million dollars. The 1 1/2 million dollars' worth of merchandise sent to Cuba was chiefly tobacco and coffee, the coffee sent from Porto Rico to Cuba obtaining the benefit of the reduced rates of duty named in the reciprocity treaty between Cuba and the United States. Of the shipment to Spain and France, coffee forms an important feature.

The 19 million dollars' worth of merchandise sent from Porto Rico to the United States is made up chiefly of sugar, a little over 14 million dollars' worth, cigars and cigarettes 3 million dollars worth, fruits a half million, unmanufactured tobacco a half million, the remainder being made up chiefly of molasses, sea-island cotton, hides and skins, manufactures of straw and palm leaf, and coffee.

The imports of the island have also grown in proportion to the value of the exports, and amounted in the fiscal year 1906 to a little less than 22 million dollars, against an annual average of about 12 1/2 millions under Spanish rule. Of this 22 million of merchandise brought into the island in 1906 about 19 million dollars was from the United States and 2 1/2 millions from foreign countries. The imports from foreign countries were from Spain a little over a half million, from Nova Scotia about a half million, from France about one-third of a million, and from the United Kingdom one-fourth of a million dollars. The imports from European countries are chiefly manufactures of various kinds and those from Nova Scotia dried fish.

The 19 million dollars' worth of merchandise brought from the United States included rice 1-3 million dollars, iron and steel manufactures 2 1/2 millions, cotton manufactures 2 1/2 millions, molasses, lard, and dairy products 1 1/2 millions, by products 1-2 millions, manufactures of leather about a half million, timber and lumber about a half million, and manufactures of wood about a half million.

The value of merchandise sent from the United States to Porto Rico during the five years prior to 1898 averaged about 2 million dollars per annum, and in 1906 was 19 millions, or practically nine times as great. The merchandise sent from Porto Rico to the United States in the five years prior to 1898 averaged about 2 1/2 million dollars per annum, and in 1906 was 19 million dollars, or about eight times as great.

KATE CLYDE ON TRAINING HUSBANDS

The Patient, Griselda Type of Wife Now Looked Down Upon—Husband and Child Both Raw Material to Be Molded

THERE is no use in talking, women have changed utterly. It is no longer considered a virtue to stand your husband's faults. It is not even considered the proper thing, and the patient Griselda type of lady, far from being admired, is apt to be looked down upon by her neighbors.

I know a woman of this type, you think! She absolutely slaves for her husband. She makes him fine plated shirts, such as he would have to pay the highest prices for at the haberdashery's. She works initials that are miracles of fineness on his pocket handkerchiefs, crimps and saves to buy him silk socks, and all the time she wears the plainest of gowns and hats, palpably homemade. They have no longer a virtue to stand your husband's faults. I tried a year and a half, and yet he goes off on "business trips" whenever it is possible. He flirts outrageously with every girl he meets, sends them bouquets and bouquets and yet is so mean that he will not allow his wife enough money to have a decent maid, and often she is forced to do her own housework.

Lately, indeed, he has pleaded reduced circumstances so successfully that she has taken up her old profession of giving singing lessons again, the proceeds of which she turns over religiously to him.

Her up-to-date friends surveyed her with disgust. They had read of such wives in books, but had never met them in real life. They began to wonder at and admire a woman who could be so saintly and medieval in her conduct toward her husband. "She will win him through kindness. Who knows?" the less sophisticated said.

But now that she has become a hopeless drudge to a man who does not always treat her well before friends, even there is only one verdict against her—that she is a failure as a wife and lacking in self respect and proper pride.

This is certainly a great "educational" age. We educate our husbands and make them what they ought to be, and we educate our children to be what we wish them.

The old fashioned wife "stands things." The old fashioned mother believed in heredity. The up-to-date woman considers both husband and child as raw material to be molded and patterned into shape alike pleasing and creditable to herself.

She does not accomplish this result by nagging. No, indeed! She believes that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and consequently she simply looks out that disagreeable things do not happen.

For instance, if her husband is irritable and was in the habit of snapping at his first wife, she adopts such a gentle tone and manner that it becomes impossible for him to pick a quarrel with her. She always treats him in such a polite Christened way that he can do no less to her, and if any one were to suggest his acting rudely toward her he would be laughed at the very prospect of treating such a well bred woman as he would an ordinary one.

Now, the first wife used to retaliate by losing her temper and weeping, but, then, poor thing, she was of the old fashioned kind and instead of bringing herself down to an angry man's level she should have realized the powerful preventive to such scenes which lies in a perfectly well bred, sweet, dignified manner. No man, however petulant, can long resist a polite influence like that in the house.

If a man is selfish it sometimes is the policy of the modern wife to be just a little more selfish herself. In this manner she forces the self centered man to come out of his little orbit and pay attention to her, taking the center of the stage, so to speak. The first thing he knows he is playing a very secondary role, and he cannot imagine how it happened, for it certainly took place without any scene of disturbance or friction. It just came to pass, that's all. And he will never be the great mogul again.

The modern mother believes very little in heredity. The phrase, "Well, you can't blame the boy for putting off things until tomorrow," his father was just like that," would mean nothing to her save that the woman who uttered it was an idiot.

She proceeds from the baby's birth to give it the best constitution, the best disposition and the best brain possible, and she does this largely by preventing the opposite elements from gaining a foothold.

It is now conceded by doctors that nearly all the ill manhood and womanhood suffer from are the result of the deplorable influence of the old untrained, while she hoped it would improve her in childhood. They say style mother who used to spend her time after its Aunt Susan or its mother, her child, leaving its mind and body, occasionally.

manhood suffer from are the result of the deplorable influence of the old untrained, while she hoped it would improve her in childhood. They say style mother who used to spend her time after its Aunt Susan or its mother, her child, leaving its mind and body, occasionally.

No, indeed! The up-to-date mother, even if she be very rich, dresses her baby as simply as possible, even coarsely. But she puts all her attention toward making him strong mentally and physically, so he may be hand-capped as little as possible in the battle of life.

She strengthens his weak points and directs his ambitions so that when he reaches manhood he is strong and well balanced, a credit to her and a comfort to the woman he marries.

But, dear me! This is certainly my serious day!

I understand that if you want to be most very awfully swell next winter you will have a costume of silver gray and brown combined.

Goodness knows that sounds homely enough to be ultra smart, but it's going to be a heap unbecoming to the pallid brown haired women, who are in the majority when it comes to types.

It seems to me a world complexion with either jetty black or fiery red locks will be needed to carry off this trying color scheme from dear Paris.

The shadow plays are being so run into the "My good man, do you ground, that I don't believe we shall see many of them next winter, and that's rather a pity, because artistic plays make very smart cold weather costumes.

The parrot matching the hat will still be used on warm September days, but it will be supplemented by the little coat having changeable collars and cuffs of taffeta to match the hat and the white flusion veil, also decorated with spots to match.

These collars and cuffs have attached or scalloped edges, and they button right on to the coat, so you can have several sets and change them around to match your different hats.

There comes a time in every dignified man's life when he receives something of a shock, and the following story is told of Bishop Potter:

He was suddenly called to New York on Sunday on very important business. He was staying in the country at the time and promptly rushed down to the station, only to find out that no more trains left that day, the railway being a small branch, one of little importance.

"Is there no way of my getting to New York?" he panted, out of breath with his rushing.

"None that I know of" quoth the station master, chewing a straw and regarding him indifferently.

"Well, can't you get me a special train, or at least an engine? I can't help the expense. I must reach New York tonight!"

"None. It can't be done."

"But, my good man, do you know who I am? I'm Bishop Potter!"

The rustic took the straw from his mouth and eyed the reverend gentleman up and down.

"I don't care if you were the superintendent of the road," he roared, "you couldn't get a train out of here on Sunday." And with that he went into his little shack and slammed the door.

New York.

THE GIRL WHO SUCCEEDS.

She has so much to do that she has no time for morbid thoughts.

She never thinks for a moment that she is not attractive nor forgets to look as charming as possible.

She is considerate of the happiness of others, and it is reflected back to her as from a looking glass.

She never permits herself to grow old, for by cultivating all the graces of heart, brain and body, age does not come to her.

She awakens cheerfully in the morning and closes her eyes thankfully at night.

She believes that life has some serious work to do, that the serious work lies very close to the homely, everyday duties and that kind words cost nothing.

She is always willing to give suggestions that will help some less fortunate one over the bad places in life's journey.

She is her own sweet, unaffected, womanly self. Therein lies the secret of her popularity—of her success.

OVERDO IT.

Mrs. Passay—Mary, wasn't that gentleman asking for me?

The New Maid—No, mum. He described the lady he wanted to see as being about forty, and I told him it couldn't be you.

Mrs. Passay—Quite right, my dear. And you shall have an extra afternoon off tomorrow.

The New Maid—Yes, mum! Thankee, mum! Yes, mum! I told him it couldn't be you, as you was about fifty!

Mrs. Passay—And while you're taking your afternoon off you'd better look out for a new place!

WHAT THE AGE OF FAKERY HAS DONE FOR THE FOOD WE EAT

HALF to the age of fakery, supreme ruler of all politics, press and pulpit, law, medicine, society, economics and morality! The nineteenth century, stopping over even into the twentieth, will go down in history as the fake century. Everything that can be cheapened, twisted and strained to enable a man at peril of his soul's salvation to put one dollar into trade and get back forty has been thus cheapened and twisted and strained. What does a man care for putting his fake soul in pawn when he thinks he can redeem it cheaply by investing a few of his fake gotten millions in philanthropy or fake education?

What made me think of this is reading what the women of the Consumers' League and the women's clubs did to force the passage of the pure food bill through a persistently holdback congress. I assure you, especially as it included a list of those senators and representatives who fought the pure food bill tooth and nail. You would be surprised at that list, really. It included especially senators away up in the high seats as to their social and religious standing. They stood for "vested interests"—interests vested in aniline dyed tomatoes, deodorized bad eggs and literally embalmed beef.

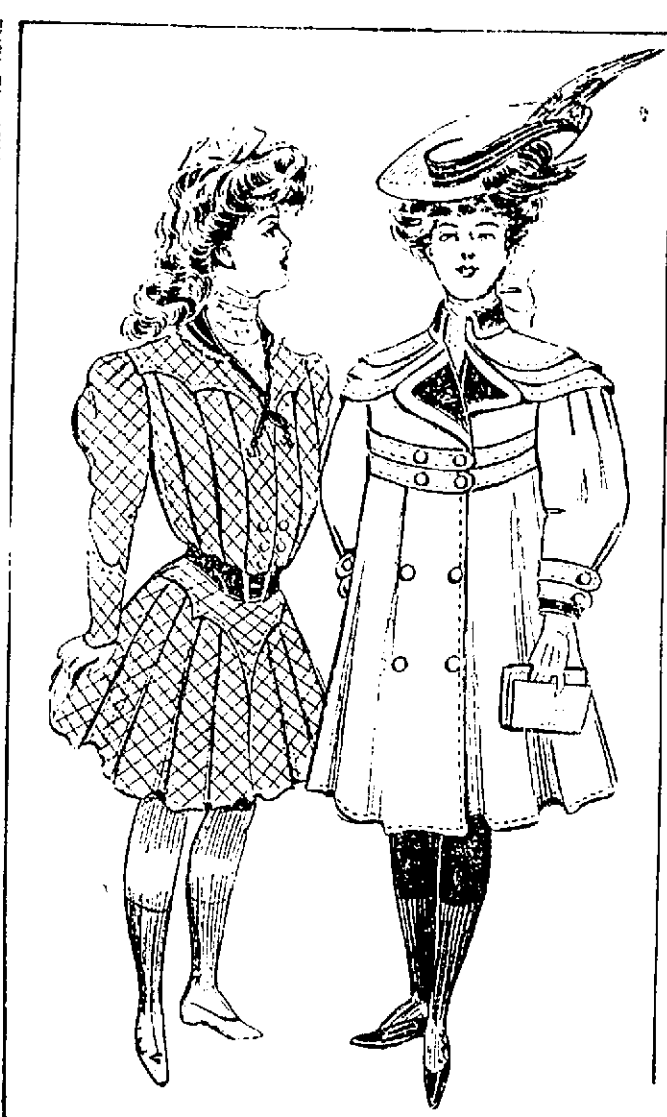

Lucky for that antique chap, 103 years old who says he owes his long life to correct habits, religion and good whiskey, that he was born and had his start before the fake century got under full swing. If he hadn't—if he had not his bringing up on such whiskey as many men drink today—he would have been done for long ere he reached his prime.

May 31, when the General Federation of Women's Clubs was meeting at St. Paul, one day in the midst of a session a telegram was brought to Mrs. Miller of Columbia, Mo., chairman of the federation's pure food committee. She conferred at once with the president, Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, and Mrs. Decker interrupted the order of business and said Mrs. Miller had an announcement to make. Mrs. Miller rose, telegram in hand, and said:

"I have just received a message from Washington that the pure food bill is dying in the house of representatives. There is not a mother or home maker in this country who is not interested in the passage of this bill. No measure of more vital interest to the home has ever been presented to the national legislature. If we are to do anything to save this measure we must act at once."

Well, it was not ten minutes till a telegram was on its way to Chairman Lieberman at Washington asking him to read in the lower house of congress a resolution from the federation, which represented 300,000 women, earnestly urging the legislators to pass that pure food bill at once, in the interest of the health of the people and of the international reputation of the American people for honesty.

At the same time wires were kept not between St. Paul and towns all over the Union telling stay at home clubwomen to send to the national house telegrams of peremptory insistence on the passage of that bill. Nearly every clubwoman who knew a congressman bestirred herself and dred into him telegrams declaring he must vote for that bill or take the consequences. Well, at the close of the Washington show, just before the long session of the Fifty-ninth congress gave its last kick, mark you, that pure food bill went through with a hurrah!

Now it's up to the men, our rulers, to see that it is enforced.

The Consumers' League, Mrs. Frederick Nathan, its president, at the head of the movement, has for years been fighting the battle for pure food. Many a forceful speech Mrs. Nathan has driven home in the cause of dying babies and the many children of the poor in cities, half starved and poisoned through and through by the adulterated cheap foods manufactured for them by gentlemen of high financial standing. Mrs. Nathan is a brilliant and witty speaker. At a banquet memorable in New York she was unexpectedly called on for a speech. She talked awhile, then amid loud applause and cries of "Go on! Go on!" she stopped, saying she could have done much better as an after dinner orator if she had only had trousers pockets to put her hands into while she talked!

Miss Alice Lakey is the special agent employed by the Consumers' League to go among the people and by means of object lectures show them what they daily eat under the delusion that they are taking nourishing food. Salicylic acid, chalk, limeshop sweepings, formaldehyde, which is actually the fluid used by undertakers to embalm dead bodies, aniline dyes, borax, these are some of the pleasant substances we swallow. As to borax in its various compounds, the prospect is that an individual may get a whole twenty mile borax team beat into his insides if he lives long enough.

Not long ago a bachelor man who felt lonely thought it would suggest a girl around if he sent to the confectioner's and ordered 15 cents' worth of ice cream. The brand of the maker is one known and advertised all over the eastern states. The bachelor man could not eat all the cream he ordered—maybe he would have eaten still less of it if he had known what it was made of. The left over delicacy remained in the plate all night and melted. In the morning there was in the bottom of the plate a greasy substance that suggested the stuff you play with your white shoes with. Perhaps it was, coriander, perhaps worse.

As ghastly frauds as any are perpetrated in cheap candies bought by children of the very poor. Miss Lakey found that a "cocoanut strawberry" selling for a cent, was glucose and aniline dye, nothing else. United States government experts analyzed her wares for her, so there could be no mistake. If you buy cheap so called "chocolate" means the Chinese are with lampblack. Nice to think of, much more than even that for this really!

ATTRACTIVE FOULARD COSTUMES.

Very smart and attractive are the gowns illustrated evolved from pin dotted and plain foulard silk. The dotted silk has a cream ground sprinkled with tiny blotches of brown, and the entire gown is elaborately trimmed with cream valencienne lace. The plain silk frock is of old rose adorned with hand embroidered and lace.

And when it comes to jams and what our British brother calls "tinned meats," a villainous compound of sulphuric acid is advertised to "preserve" meats sound for weeks. Some time ago a few links of a popular brand of sausage were subjected to analysis in the matter of their enticing color. Enough aniline dye was found in them to color a pair of man's woolen stockings bright red. Somehow I shall never taste sausage again without thinking of eating woolen socks, so great is the power of imaginative association on the human mind.

Our faithful government experts have also made critical examination of divers jams and pickles. The result is that some of the jams and jellies are found to have in them not a trace of the fruit of which they are labeled to be the "pure" representatives. Miss Lakey exhibits in her lectures tiny squares of outing flannel colored radiant crimson, purple, green and yellow from the aniline dyes put into the so called fruit preparations.

"How beautiful they are!" exclaimed a woman who looked on the brilliant squares of cotton cloth. Then she added in an awe stricken voice, "And are we all dyed inside like that?"

Get rich quick? Of course they do, the manufacturers of these stuffs, and ride about in their automobiles like aristocrats. But when the American mothers are once thoroughly aware of the manner in which their children are being slowly poisoned and starved by adulterated foods then will come retribution. Perhaps the General Federation of Women's Clubs will demand and obtain that the manufacturers of these villainous alleged eatables be sentenced to live for a term of years on their own jam and sausages, with an admiring public watching the animals feed behind bars!

Some of the states have found an immediate way to check the progress of this national dishonor by enacting stiff pure food laws. The great meat trust has caught the situation very quickly in such cases and sends into the pure food law states only meat products that are specially and hygienically prepared.

Meantime, if we cannot afford to buy anything but cheap and nasty food delicacies let us live on homemade cornbread and fresh fruit.

TEA TABLE LORE.

If a person accidentally receives two spoons in a cup of tea she will be married within a year.

A tea leaf floating in the cup of an unmarried lady is a sign that she has an admirer. If on this occasion the tea is stirred quickly and the spoon is then held upright in the middle of the cup, and the tea leaf is attracted to the spoon and clings to it, the admirer would be sure to call that day, but if the tea leaf goes to the side of the cup he will not be expected so soon.

SHE WINS DOWER

Mrs. Gibson to Get $400,000

WILL COULD NOT BE FOUND

Made Bride While Husband Was Dying

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—News was received here yesterday that the famous contest over the missing will of John McCormack Gibson, millionaire and owner of some of the most valuable blocks of real estate in Chelmsford, had ended in the triumph of Mrs. Henrietta Cecilia Gibson, nee Wolf, of Providence, who is now in Europe.

The settlement gives Mrs. Gibson a sum estimated at $400,000 for her dower. She is one of the daughters of the late Bruno Wolf, a wealthy real estate and business man of Providence.

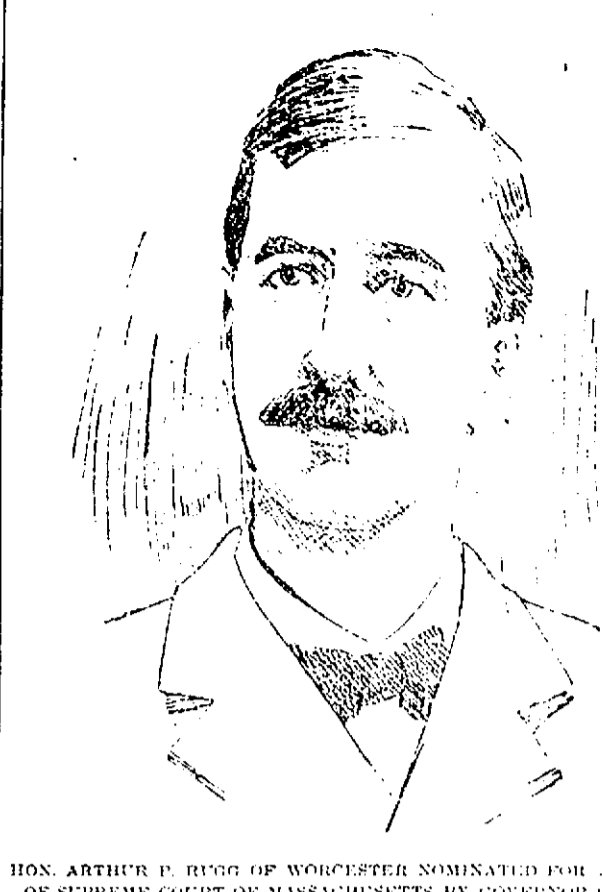

The romantic circumstances attending the courtship and marriage of Miss Wolf by Mr. Gibson aroused widespread interest at the time, and this was intensified by the death of the bridegroom a few days later and the mysterious disappearance of the will he was said to have executed on his death bed at Asheville, N. C.

In this will, which was facsimile, the following sentence summarizes Mrs. Gibson's wishes: "To my dearly beloved wife I give all."

When she was unable to produce the original will Mr. Gibson's relatives here contested her claims, and it was represented that she was not even entitled to dower rights.

Mr. Gibson's first wife was a Miss Gooding of this city, who perished in the great fire in New York, on the night of Patrick's day, 1891. The first met Miss Wolf at Saratoga a year or two later, and it was a case of love at first sight.

The wedding date was set, but the prospective groom was taken ill and went south to Asheville to recuperate. As the disease progressed and there appeared to be little hope for him, Miss Wolf was told of his condition and hurried to his bedside, accompanied by her sister, Miss Alice Wolf.

With her appearance on the scene, the sick man began to show signs of improvement. He insisted upon a wedding immediately, and the ceremony was performed on Nov. 1, 1903. Mr. Gibson continued to improve apparently, but had a relapse about a week later and died on Nov. 8.

Mrs. Henrietta Cecilia (Wolf) Gibson sailed for Europe last Tuesday with her sister on the steamship Canada, to be gone about three months.

Mrs. Gibson is a talented musician and linguist, a charming conversationalist and generally prepossessing in appearance.

A garbage can is necessary. The Thompson Hardware Co. has a full line of them.

AFTER 32 YEARS

Man Finally Locates His Parents

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—After a search of 32 years, Edward B. Alexander, who ran away from his home in New York when a boy of 11, has found his parents and brothers and sisters in Dorchester, Mass.

Alexander is now a lightkeeper on Long Island, Portland harbor, but he has been sailor, soldier and fisherman, and has made two voyages around the world.

When he ran away over 30 years ago as a stowaway on a fishing schooner, his father was a poor working man in New York. Today he is in affluence, and has nearly reached the adopted age of three score and ten.

Although he has really found his father, the younger man has not seen his parents yet, since it is impossible for the son to leave his responsible position at the light station, but the reunion will take place next Sunday, when the parents and brothers and sisters will all come to Long Island.

The descriptions seemed right. The younger man wrote, but at first received no answer, for twice his parents had been lied by impostors who offered to find their boy for a "considerable" sum.

Edward Alexander, after his first stowaway trip, made two voyages around the world, was in the Spanish war and was skipper of a fishing schooner. He finally married and settled down on Long Island.

FOR DEFENDANT

DECISION ARISING FROM UNDER-TAKER'S DISPUTE.

A case that had to do with the death of little Aurora Lambert daughter of Theodore Lambert of 18 Bond street, was heard by Judge Hildreth in the decision of police court yesterday afternoon. The little girl's father had first given Undertaker Albert the order for recovering the body from the canal, and later, upon the failure of Mr. Albert to recover it, the father had given the order to the undertaker to look for it, without notifying Mr. Albert of the fact. Mr. Albert and his men continued their search, finding the body on the second night after the drowning on August 3.

Yesterday's case was an action on contract to recover for services rendered by the undertaker.

NIGHT EDITION

SCHOOLS CROWDED

Large Attendance of Centralville Children

Another room was opened at the Frederic T. Greenhalge school in Ennall street yesterday and before long it is expected that the fourth and last room in the school will have to be opened. When the school was opened last Monday four grammar and three primary rooms were opened, the following day another grammar room was opened and yesterday still another.

If the attendance continues to grow it might be advisable to reopen the Lakeview avenue annex, but Supt. Whitcomb feels that the general rush is now over and that the ten rooms will accommodate the pupils for the present school term.

In speaking with the writer this morning Mr. Whitcomb said: "It is not for the fact that the parochial school of St. Louis parish is being erected near the Greenhalge school and that it will be ready for occupancy next year the new school which has been erected in Ennall street would be inadequate to meet the demands next year. But at the present time there are a number of scholars in the Lakeview avenue and Greenhalge schools who will go to the St. Louis school next year."

The ungraded room at the Cheever street school which was opened last Tuesday by Supt. Whitcomb, has at the present time 33 pupils and it looks as though another room would have to be opened next week.

The ungraded room system was inaugurated by Supt. Whitcomb last January when the law relative to illiterates between the ages of 14 and 16 years went into effect. That law stated that no child between those ages could secure work in a mill, factory, store, etc., without being able to read and write the English language.

This led Mr. Whitcomb to open one room in the Worthen street school and another in Cheever street. As the majority of the attendants were from the Little Canada section, the scholars at the Worthen street school were transferred to the Cheever street school, where there was a spare room.

Last year 50 certificates were granted to pupils who attended the ungraded school and Mr. Whitcomb felt highly elated over the system.

This year it was not known whether or not there would be any applications, but the first day brought out over a score and a room was opened in Cheever street school the following day. Miss Elizabeth Provinecher was placed in charge of the room and the increase has been so great that she has asked for an assistant.

In was deemed advisable by the Pale? Thin?

How is it with the children these days? Have they plenty of grit, courage, strength? Or are they thin, pale, delicate? This reminds you of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It does great things for children. It gives them a good appetite, improves their digestion, builds up their general health. Ask your doctor if he endorses this.

FINE HOME FOR SALE

On Centralville Heights

At a Great Bargain

The undersigned, being about to move to his new residence in Belvidere, offers his present home at 119 Fremont street, for sale. The premises consist of a large two and one-half story house with a fine stable on a nicely graded and stone curbed double lot of land containing 11,000 square feet. The house is in first-class condition throughout. It has twelve good rooms besides an attic room, pantry and modern bath room. The plumbing is modern and first class in every particular. The steam heating plant consists of a fine steel boiler, set in brick with ten radiators, piped in the best possible manner. Cellar bottom cemented and sub-drained. Walks and driveway concreted and lot front curbed with granite.

The stable is one of the finest on the hill. The carriage house is concreted and drained into the street sewer. There are three stalls, (one a box stall) fine harness room and a finished room for a hostler, together with all the facilities necessary for a high grade stable. The location is slightly, airy and healthy and the street cars are within one minute's walk of the house. There are several nice fruit and shade trees and an excellent lawn.

To build such a home today with the prevailing price of labor and material would cost nearly double the sum for which I am willing to sell. Further particulars will be cheerfully given to anyone desirous of buying such a residence.

MISS BLANCHE JEWETT WESTON.

Miss Blanche Jewett Weston Victimized by A. A. Voss as Baron Von Waldeck — He is Arrested

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—August A. Voss who is said to have called himself Baron August Von Waldeck Hoff, was arrested in Brooklyn today on a charge of bigamy. Complaint was made against him by Catherine D. Voss, of Newark, N. J., who alleges that Voss married her several years ago and last July married Blanche Weston of Lowell, Mass. The latter is said to have been an actress and a member of a company which formerly played in "Nancy Brown."

Voss was at work in a jewelry store when arrested.

MYSTERIOUS CASE

Woman in Critical Condition at City Hospital

Mary Mahoney, 51, is at the city hospital in a critical condition.

She was removed from her home in Davis street last Wednesday to the city hospital and her condition rather baffles the doctors and the police.

She is suffering from bruises, scratches and minor cuts that the police do not believe were self-inflicted. She was removed to the farm because of the information given the police and the board of charities as to her condition.

She was heard to moan in the apartments which she occupied all alone and while she refused assistance from neighbors she maintained that she had not been assaulted.

She is resting comfortably at the city hospital and while she refuses to discuss the cause of her condition she intimates that it will be known "later on."

Man Mentioned in Etta Johnson Case

WAS IN POLICE COURT TODAY

Fisherman Would Return to the Banks

The case of James Duncan McMillan, charged with being connected with the Etta Johnson case, that of alleged criminal operation, was in police court today.

It was stated that the Johnson girl would not be able to leave the hospital for several days and it was necessary to continue the case. A continuance of one week was granted.

DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

There was one drunken offender in police court today who had a drunk case for trial. He had wandered from St. John's, Newfoundland, to a Yankee port and this is what he had to say.

"I've been a fisherman all my life and I've fished off the Newfoundland banks for years. I tried of fishing and hearing so much about the good times over here I thought I'd try my luck, and do you know, Judge, I'd just like to be setting the net off that rugged coast this minute. I'm all out of business here. I don't know what to do. I'd just as soon go to hell as to the best hotel in the city. I want to get back to Newfoundland, to smell the codfish and to know that I'm fish but poor!"

The man from the island in the son was allowed to go.

Five first offenders were fined $2 each and three were released.

WOMAN IN JAIL

Accused of Being Public Nuisance

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. Mrs. Mary Selma Helm, who for the past six weeks has succeeded in preventing Thomas J. Enright, a candidate of No. 1098 Jackson avenue, from building a wall on a store he is erecting alongside Mrs. Helm's flat house, at No. 775 East One Hundred and Sixty-second street, the Bronx, was arrested today on a charge of being a public nuisance.

Voss was at work in a jewelry store when arrested.

In default of bail Mrs. Helm was locked up in Harlem prison, charged for being a public nuisance.

Quinn took advantage of her absence and put on an extra force of bricklayers, who built three-quarters of the offending wall by midnight.

Should she fail to secure a bailman today, the work will be completed.

Mrs. Helm is specifically charged with knocking down the wall facing the windows of the rear of her flat with an axe on the night of August 28, and with tumbling bricks down on heads of Quinn and his workmen the next day.

Quinn also told the court that Mrs. Helm had been throwing water and other things on him and his workmen ever since. Yesterday, he said, she had a pull of red paint ready to throw should he or his workmen venture near the wall.

Patishman Denegher had his own troubles in arresting the woman. He went to her flat at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and was refused admittance. Denegher sat down on the floor of the hall in front of Mrs. Helm's kitchen door. For four hours he did not move.

Finally Mrs. Helm opened the door to see if he was still there. Denegher forced his way in and placed her under arrest.

CIGARETTE EVIL

Makes Thieves of Boys

Says Judge

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—"Cigarette smoking makes boys thieves and steal," Justice William O'Shea, of the Children's court, declared yesterday in making this observation by the report which Chief Probation Officer Granger had made with reference to his long list of juvenile offenders.

"I never smoked a cigarette in my life and I never will," said the justice. "But I have made a study of the effect of the habit. Tobacco in the form of cigarettes works great physical harm, especially to the immature. Injury to a boy's physique makes injury to his morals easier. I have had hundreds of boys before me whose yellow stained fingers furnished good evidence of a continuing cause to their criminality. I do not want to be misunderstood. All recalcitrant boys are not cigarette fiends, but in most cases the parents are sure to say that cigarettes are responsible for their son's erring."

"It would be a good thing if a plan could be devised to put a stop to this smoking by children. Of one thing I am convinced, and that is that the number of criminals would be lessened."

Probation Officer Granger said that he believed that 90 per cent. of the juvenile delinquents among boys are cigarette smokers.

MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A man supposed to be John T. McDowell of Springfield, Mass., was removed to the Roosevelt hospital from 65th and Columbus avenue in an unconscious condition today. In his pockets was a card made out in the name of John T. McDowell, Springfield, Mass., lodge No. 561, B. P. O. Elks.

A BIG SETTLEMENT

Abner A. Jewett Pays His Wife $12,500

Lawyer Enright Effects Biggest Settlement of Its Kind on Record Locally in Case Brought Against Former Lowell Man by His Wife

Thomas J. Enright, the well known local attorney has just effected what is probably the biggest settlement ever made in a case of separate maintenance in this vicinity.

In the case of Abner A. Jewett, the latter a former resident of this city and a former member of the firm of Jewett and Swift of Lowell, Chicago and Philadelphia.

By the terms of the settlement Mr. Jewett will pay his wife $12,500 in cash, and the terms have been practically complied with.

The couple were married in Philadelphia some years ago and lived in grand style in that city where both moved in the most exclusive society, but their married life beneath the surface was not happy and after a few years society was shocked to learn that Mr. Jewett had disappeared. His wife some time afterward located him in New York and going there appealed to him to live with her again and a reconciliation was effected. Owing to the fact that their life in Philadelphia had been unhappy they decided not to return to that city but leased a magnificent residence in New York city where for a time they lived apparently in perfect harmony. Later, however, the husband's love grew cold again and he disappeared a second time, this time going to Europe from which place he would his wife to the effect that he would never return to her.

She then brought a suit in the Pennsylvania courts and was awarded a verdict of $20,000 on a judgment note, a proceeding somewhat similar to our separate maintenance proceedings. After the judgment had been rendered it was learned that Mr. Jewett had previously disposed of all his interests in that state and had also sold out his interests in the Packing company.

Mrs. Jewett's New York lawyers then called Lawyer Enright of this city into the case and the latter in looking up the Jewett interests in this vicinity found that Abner Jewett had turned over all his holdings locally to his brother, Frank E. Jewett of this city, and in the transaction had described himself as a single man. Lawyer Enright then placed a special attachment of $25,000 on all the property in Frank E. Jewett's name preparatory to another suit. The interests of the Jewetts were represented locally by McIntyre and Wilson. Recently Mr. Abner Jewett returned from Europe and at a conference held in this city between Mr. Jewett and the counsel for both sides it was agreed to settle the case by the payment to Mrs. Jewett of $12,500. Mr. Enright then went to New York to consult with his client and as a result the settlement was finally agreed upon and the terms have been practically all carried out. During all the litigation no divorce proceedings were brought and the couple are still legally wedded.

MUELLER LAW A BIG CROWD

Dismissed for Want of Equity

At Closing Session of Registration

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. Judge Whelan in the circuit court today dismissed for want of equity, the proceedings against the constitutionality of the Muller law, under which the city of Chicago was to require and operate the street railways. He did not pass upon the constitutionality of the act itself.

Regarding the alleged constitutionality of the Muller law, the court declared that while there may be in some points a doubt as to the intent of the legislature he believed the doubt should favor what appeared to be the intention of the legislature in enacting the measure.

The case will now be appealed to the state supreme court which will take it under advisement next month.

The Muller law provides for the issuance of $5,000,000 worth of railway certificates by the city.

This is the last day of registration, on all day session being held at city hall. All the candidates for minor offices, representatives of Dunbar and Ames, some of the executives from both city committees and a host of party workers on both sides were in attendance assisting the prospective voters in the work of getting their names on the voting list. The registrars were kept busy during the afternoon, and they predict a large registration.

U. S. MARINES

HAVE BEEN LANDED AT CIENFUEGOS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—"Later today another dispatch was received from Commander Fulham of the Marietta, stating that a force had been landed from that ship at Cienfuegos to protect sugar plantations, which were threatened. A telegram also was received at the state department today from Mr. Atkins, one of the owners of the Cienfuegos estate near Cienfuegos, in which he says he received a cablegram from Cienfuegos today announcing that insurgents had camped in Cienfuegos last night. He says his information does not confirm previous dispatches as to the destruction of sugar plantations.

From dispatches received today from Mr. Sleeper, charge of the American legation at Havana, it appears that the extent of damage to American property near Cienfuegos had been exaggerated. Mr. Sleeper says he had received a contradiction of the report that the Hautey estate had been destroyed, and thus far, he says, he has not been able to confirm the report that the Constancia estate buildings have been burned. Other advices received at the state department are to the effect that the buildings on the Hortalguera estate were not burned by the insurgents and it is said the report probably arose from the fact that the railway station near that estate had been destroyed. A dispatch was received today from American Consul Holaday at Santiago de Cuba saying that so far as he has been able to learn there has been no actual warfare in Santiago. It is reported 500 men are under arms.

FOUND DEAD

RETIRED BUSINESS MAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—August V. Binkow, a retired business man, who had been living in the Murray Hill hotel for five or six years, was found dead in his room at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had shot himself through the head. He is a native of Poland, explaining that he suffered from stomach trouble. He left another note addressed to Edward Binkow of 29 West Twentieth street, his brother, asking him to take charge of his effects.

Coroner Artell believes that the man had been dead for nearly twenty-four hours before he was found. He was found lying on the floor of his room in the office of the hotel. A little over two hours after the suicide was discovered, the coroner's office called up the Tanager police station and asked that a man be sent to the Murray Hill hotel to get the coroner, as he was wanted on another case.

"We have been trying to get him on the wire, but the hotel people won't get him for us," said the man who was the coroner. "This is no messenger's job," said the sergeant. "What is the coroner doing there?"

"Why, don't you know? There's a suicide there. Happened two hours ago."

Sergeant McCall got his first information of the suicide in his precinct and sent two men over.

ASKED FOR PAY STATE CORD-AGE CO.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Receiver Albert S. Agency of the First National bank of Chelsea, brought a bill in the superior court today against the Pay State Cordage Co., which has a plant at Newburyport, asking for the appointment of a receiver for the company. An order of notice has been issued returnable next Monday.

The company's liabilities, according to the bill, aggregated $19,700. The bill alleges that the company is indebted to the receiver of the bank for $23,000 on promissory notes and the further sum of $115,000 being the aggregate liabilities as maker on drafts drawn by it on Hinkley Brothers & Co., accepted by the latter and discounted by the bank. It is alleged that the defendant is indebted to the Metropolitan National bank of Boston for $27,000 on commercial paper, to the Banknote National National bank of Providence for $10,000 and to various other and smaller creditors for the aggregate amount of $9000.

FIRST CARGO

50,000 POUNDS OF FLITCHED HALL- BUT BEACHED GLOUCESTER.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 15.—The first cargo of flitched hall of the season was brought into port today by the schooner Oregon, which brought $8,000 lbs. from Labrador waters. The Oregon reports that she sighted the Boston schooner Massachusetts on the fishing grounds. The Massachusetts reported having been caught in a severe storm which blew her far from her fishing grounds and caused her to lose nearly all her gear. At the time the Massachusetts was sighted she was making for Newfoundland for repairs. The Rockport schooner Eddie Minot arrived today badly damaged by yesterday's severe blow.

GERTRUDE KNIGHT

IS IN A STATE OF COLLAPSE.

RUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Gertrude T. Knight of Philadelphia, the young woman wanted in connection with the case of W. W. Turner, at police headquarters in a state of collapse. Superintendent of Police Rogers visited her today and questioned her concerning the case and later stated that she had admitted to him that an operation had been performed on her and that she was willing to testify in the case. Miss Knight's brother arrived here today.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Victor Anthony, 35 years old, the wife of an Erie Railroad employee, hanged herself from the roof of a tenement house in what is known as "Duck Row" in the city yesterday afternoon by cutting the child's throat with a razor, and then threw herself from the roof of the tenement house, containing inmates from which she had just been evicted. She died in the hospital without regaining consciousness.

Shortly before 1 o'clock, while working on the Erie Railroad tracks, in the north of Poughkeepsie, a woman, weighing her hands and feet, was found on the roof of a tenement house in what is known as "Duck Row" in the city. She was found by a man who was working on the tracks of the Erie Railroad, and she was thrown from the roof of the tenement house, containing inmates from which she had just been evicted. She died in the hospital without regaining consciousness.

BROKER HELD

Swindle of $5000 is Charged

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Thomas McNelly, 49 years old, who lives at the Hotel Yale, 212 1/2 Eighth avenue, and says he is a broker, was arrested at Fourth street and Broadway last night on complaint of H. C. Feltner, manager of the local branch of a Baltimore wholesale firm at 61 Broadway. McNelly is charged with swindling $5000 worth of stock.

Feltner has been looking for him for a month, and when he met him on the street last night he held him until he could call Policemen Maher and Kelly of the Tenderloin station house. He showed them the card of Detective Sergeant Barney McConville of District Attorney Jerome's office, on which was a notice asking any policeman to arrest McNelly on sight.

Feltner declared that McNelly worked the old credit game on him by offering him to a firm of alleged bankers, who assured him that McNelly was worth at least $75,000. He delivered a big bill of goods to McNelly in a store at 115th street and Eighth avenue, he said, and when the time came for payment the store had disappeared. Other arrests are likely to follow.

When McNelly was arrested a visit in regard of Wilson Mizner, who married Mrs. Yerkes, was found in his pocket.

KILLED HIS WIFE

Woman Decided to Leave Husband

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Mary Luesko, a Bohemian girl, married, was shot and killed by her husband in the street on the third floor rear of the tenement at 481 East Seventy-fourth street last night.

The couple, each thirty-five, had been married about four years, and had two young children. The woman had a girl twelve years old by a former marriage. They had been quarrelling all week, and three times the woman left her home to seek refuge with her sister, Mrs. John Kupsch, who lives at 532 East Seventy-third street. Friday Michael, the husband, had his wife, determined to get her children, take them back and make her home with her sister.

She found two of the children playing on the street, and accompanied by her sister's husband, went upstairs for the third one. The brother-in-law stood outside her door while she went inside. The husband was there a few moments, and then a shot was fired. The mother came staggering out into the hall with blood pouring from a hole in her left breast. At the same time the child, who had been asleep, woke up at the shot and began to scream.

The husband, pursuing the dying woman, ran into the brother-in-law. In the scuffle Michael shot at the other, but missed, and got so badly beaten over the head that he was afterward lodged in Bellevue with six scalp wounds.

MAN SNEEZED VIOLENTLY AND EXPIRED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Charles Pfeiffer, a grocer of 67 West street, West, New York, N. Y., sneezed violently yesterday while delivering goods in that town and fell to the ground dead. It was believed that cerebral hemorrhage was caused by the severe sneeze. Pfeiffer was 35 years old.

TO GREET BRYAN

REPUBLICAN CLUB TO TAKE PART IN RECEPTION.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15.—A feature of the reception planned for William J. Bryan here Sept. 24 is that the Louisiana republican club will take an active part. An attempt will be made to make the reception entirely non-partisan.

WESTER HAY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A political luncheon will be held in New York State politics was the subject of the luncheon took place at Syracuse Hill today. President Roosevelt was the host, and Representative James H. Sherman, chairman of the special congressional committee, presided. Theodore T. Woodruff, former New York governor and Albert Shaw were guests.

It is understood that Mr. Woodruff was present in order that he might receive the benefit of President Roosevelt's influence in his fight against the state chairman. It is said that Woodruff, before going to Syracuse Hill, Mr. Woodruff said that they, Lincoln and his friends had been in it, but that his understanding was that the governor was not desirous of entering the race.

Mr. Sherman said that he did not know exactly why he was called to Syracuse Hill at this time. Acting Secretary of State Bacon went to his Long Island home in his automobile last night and returned to his executive office. He said there was no news touching the Cuban situation today, and that it was his intention to proceed to Washington this afternoon.

Sad Story of Salem's "Mysterious Woman"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Bibb General Theodore J. Wint, commanding the department of the Missouri, has reported to the war department that in his opinion the canteen should be restored at army posts. He says: "The demoralizing influence of the canteen surrounding posts, giving rise to a large proportion of the most serious offenses and practically all those with penalties attached, is a condition characteristic of a great measure. In the opinion of the judge advocate, the prohibition placed upon the post exchanges."

AMES AFTER DUNBAR

The Residents of Wigginville Stirred by Congressman

Dunbar, Cole and Others Roasted—John L. Hunt Threatens to Block Democratic Political Machine

Some 300 republicans attended a mass rally in Social Hall, Wigginville, last evening at which Congressman Ames roared himself in a tirade his opponent Mr. Dunbar, Speaker Cole, the Boston & Maine, the Lowell Mills, the Docks & Canal, the Lowell district, and a few other persons and subjects, and in the midst of his remarks he said: "This fight from my point of view should be an important one. I am not the only one at stake here."

Robert Catherwood, after pleading for an impartial campaign and then attacking the Republican Party, on his opponent asked what Mr. Dunbar had then been doing for the last two years? Then he turned his attention to Speaker Cole and the Boston & Maine railroad as follows:

"In reaching the other night, there was, I think, Mr. Dunbar present at the meeting. Speaker Cole, a man chosen speaker of the lower house of this state's legislature by the railroads. He was the one man of all Mr. Dunbar's supporters who was not earnest in getting Mr. Dunbar to run against me in this campaign. This man Cole never voluntarily supported me. He demanded payment of the for anything which appeared in his papers. The Lawrence Telegram and the Andover Townsman, and he got it, and because I refused to give more he has gone to the support of another man. And I can prove it, by letters and hand-writing."

"I am going to tell you what was told me last spring, at the beginning of the campaign, and which I have tried very hard to verify but which I have been unable to do. It was told to me by my dear friend, political friend, Postmaster Thompson. He told me that a certain railroad official had said that I should be given the choice between the Lowell Interurban railroad and my seat in Congress. And I said back then that whoever said it might as well be the last player, and that I would get both. (Cheers.)"

"In reaching, at the first meeting, held in the home of the postmaster of the Boston & Maine road, of the eleven men present, six were Boston & Maine employees, and on Mr. Dunbar's call for a meeting, a few nights ago, of the eleven present, five or six were of Boston & Maine men."

"Ask the boys in this city what they are doing for Mr. Dunbar, and why they are doing it, and if they know you well enough they will tell you that they have been told by the Boston & Maine to prevent me from being nominated. I know that's true. And if my opponent will guarantee that they will not lose their jobs and all chances of promotion I can furnish their names."

"At a late hour held in Andover, a few nights ago Mr. Cole was present. Cole the man who sells his editorial opinions. And with them was former Colonel Woodward who did more to discourage the commonwealth of Massachusetts than all of the Edwards the state ever put out before, and who was once elected to Congress in Boston. That is typical of my opposition. (Cheers.)"

After the meeting Congressman Ames met personally many of those who were present at the meeting.

MR. HUNT'S CLAIM.
John L. Hunt, one of the democratic candidates for senator, went to the headquarters yesterday and asked to see the republican papers filed by John J. ## McBRIDE CASE

Attorney General Gives a Hearing

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Charged with being a fugitive from justice and with taking away his two daughters from their mother, from whom he had been divorced by the only courts, in James T. McBride of Jersey City, who was arrested in Chelsea on July 2, was granted a hearing before Atty. Gen. Malone yesterday on a question of his extradition to the state of Georgia where his wife is now living, and where, it is claimed, the children were taken.

Dr. McBride, at the time of his arrest, furnished bail at $1000 and has since been living in this state, fighting the extradition proceedings. Solicitor-General Bennett of Georgia, assisted by H. J. Morley of Westfield, are making the fight for the extradition to the northern commonwealth, which will be resumed after two postponements yesterday, in which a settlement of the parties was attempted, but as far as could be ascertained did not materialize.

MATTHEWS' CANOE TABLE.
A well attended meeting of the canoe table which was connected with the Matthews' mid-winter carnival last January, was held last night in the rooms of the society. Great interest is being taken in the arrangements for the grand social which the table intends to hold in the Matthews' new hall in Boston street, this evening, Sept. 25, in aid of the building fund. A committee of three was appointed to make all the necessary arrangements. The committee consists of the chairman, matron and secretary. The Calumet orchestra of five pieces was engaged. A complimentary dance will be tendered the young ladies at the next meeting of the table.

NORTH BILLERICA.
Anniversary Sunday will be observed at the Baptist church tomorrow, this being the beginning of the third year of the present pastorate. The sermon subject in the morning will be "Looking Forward," while in the evening the subject of the sermon will be "What Think Ye of Christ?"

Thomas Twomey of North Billerica has accepted a position as conductor on the Boston Elevated Railroad company.

John Shepherd lies critically ill at his home in South Billerica as the result of a paralytic shock with which he was stricken recently.

CARS COLLIDED.
THREE PERSONS WERE PROBABLY FATALITY HURT.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15.—Three street cars, one loaded to the guards with passengers, collided in First avenue early today and more than a dozen passengers and crew members were injured. Three of the passengers are not expected to survive. Russ Hall, manager of the Seattle baseball club, was a passenger and was cut about the head and bruised.

WARSAW QUIET.
BUT THE JEWS FEAR AN ATTACK.

WARSAW, Sept. 15.—Everything is quiet here this morning, in spite of the fact that the authorities are actively engaged in searching the Jewish quarters and making hundreds of arrests. It is generally feared that a Jewish attack here is unavoidable, and the Jews predict an attack for the new year.

HIT ON THE ROCKS

Passengers on the Steamer Oregon in Danger

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15.—A despatch to the Post-Intelligencer from Valdez, says:

The steamer Oregon hit the rocks on the beach of Hinchbrook Island, at the entrance to Prince William Sound at 11 o'clock Thursday night. She was trying to find the entrance in the darkness when the headland loomed up and although she reversed the engines the vessel struck hard enough to tear the bottom. The Oregon struck at low tide and water soon filled the engine room. A crew of five men left hurriedly for Valdez to get assistance. The revenue cutter Rush and McCullough left to take off the passengers. There was no sea running at the time of the wreck but the position of the steamer is exposed to the full force of the swell and if the wind rises she will be in a precarious position. The wreck is carried 70 miles from Valdez and 25 miles from Nuchek. The passengers are all safe. The vessel will be a total loss.

IS DANGEROUS

THE OREGON IN DANGER OF BREAKING UP.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Special despatches received here of the wreck of the steamer Oregon off Cape Hinchbrook, at the entrance of Prince William Sound at 11 o'clock on Thursday night, say that the steamer lies in a very dangerous position and should a severe storm set in the passengers and crew would stand but little chance of surviving.

The Oregon, commanded by Captain H. F. Soule, sailed from Seattle for Valdez and Seaward, Sept. 8. She had fifty odd passengers and about 200 tons of freight.

Cape Hinchbrook has ever been regarded as a menace to navigation and it was but a few months ago that the government made an appropriation of $125,000 for the erection of a light at the extreme end of the point. This work is now progressing.

The Oregon is owned by the Northwestern Commercial Co. of Seattle.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—The Rev. Dr. George Steadman Bennett, who came to Detroit from Boston three years ago to fill the pulpit of the North Baptist church, yesterday announced his resignation from the pastorate of the church of the Epiphany. This is the climax of the most sensational church war that Michigan has ever known. The pastor is on the verge of physical and nervous breakdown from the intense strain of the past few months, and it is probable that Epiphany church, which was organized by seceders from the North church, will be disintegrated.

CHURCHILL WINS.
AUTHOR GETS THE VOTES IN LEBANON.

LEBANON, N. H., Sept. 15.—With a brass band leading a procession of men and boys, the ringing of church bells, burning of fire and enthusiastic cheering, the republicans of this town celebrated the victory of Col. Winston Churchill at the caucus here last night. The caucus was carried by Churchill by a majority of 459 to 228, adding eight more delegates to the author's list for Tuesday's convention at Concord.

66 MARINES.
ORDERED FROM PORTSMOUTH NAVY YARD.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 15.—A detachment of sixty-six marines under command of Captain Charles E. Hatch left the Portsmouth navy yard under hurried orders today on their way to Norfolk, Va. With good train connections the men will arrive in that city in time to embark on one of the cruises which is under orders to sail next Monday night. It was the opinion among the officers at the local yard that the marines were being hurried south in order that they might be available for service in Cuba.

STRIKE ORDERED.
Of Wabash Road Shop Employees

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A general strike of all shop employees on the Wabash railroad system has been ordered, to take effect next Monday morning. The order affects 1500 skilled mechanics, including machinists, boiler-makers and blacksmiths.

James O'Connell, president of the International Association of Machinists, before leaving Chicago for Washington last night, said that everything possible had been done to avert a strike.

Conferees have been in progress between the officials of the Wabash and Mr. O'Connell during the last week. The question at issue concerns wages, the machinists being chiefly interested.

TWO INDICTMENTS

The Sole of Diseased Beef is Charged

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 15.—The Chittenden county grand jury, which is in session here, has been hearing many witnesses from all parts of the state in connection with charges that diseased meats have been sold by the state. It has been alleged that cows which had been condemned by state inspectors because their diseased condition made their milk unsafe for use had been killed by the inspectors and their bodies, or parts of them sold for meat. Yesterday afternoon the grand jury reported that two indictments had been found, but according to their custom, they did not make public the names of the persons indicted and it is not known whether the indictments were in connection with the diseased meat charges or with some of the minor cases which are before the jury for consideration. The jury asked for more time, which was granted, and then adjourned until Wednesday next, when they will resume their session.

Gov. Charles J. Bell has not yet made public a report submitted to him by Attorney General Clark C. Fitts concerning the testimony of witnesses during the investigation of this matter.

GUESTS IN PANIC.
Fire in a Hotel in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—The Gilmour hotel in Bank street was destroyed by a fire that started shortly before midnight. Many of the guests jumped from windows and were seriously injured.

The hotel was crowded, visitors to the industrial exposition having caused an extraordinary demand for accommodations. Some of the guests were sleeping on cots in the hallways.

The fire started shortly before midnight and spread with great rapidity. Escape by the stairways had been cut off before some of the guests were aroused.

At 1 a. m. the fire was under control and was confined to the hotel. The hospital report the following cases of injured at the fire:

Mrs. H. R. Butterworth, Ottawa, heavily burned; Mrs. Dr. Garry, Galt, Ont., severely burned; H. T. Walker, Melville, Gloucester county, N. J., both legs broken by jumping from window; Mrs. Robert Pentecost, Toronto, both legs broken; T. Smith, Montreal, severely injured and burned; Amelia L. Forest, Toronto, internally injured; George Montgomery, commercial traveler, Toronto, fractured thigh and other injuries.

Firemen searching the ruins at 2 o'clock this morning reported that no bodies had been found in the ruins.

The hotel was valued at $80,000 and the hotel, the proprietor is at Atlantic City, N. J.

A store and a branch of the Royal bank on the ground floor were burned out.

WOMEN FAINTED

Others Were Trampled Upon by the Crowd

Mad Rush to See the President's Daughter — Almost a Panic at Unveiling of McKinley Statue — Exercises Had to be Postponed

COLUMBIUS, Sept. 15.—With panic threatening a crowd of 50,000 persons surging about a stand erected in the capital grounds, frantic to secure a glimpse of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the president's daughter, the oratorical exercises arranged for the unveiling of a statue of William McKinley yesterday afternoon were suddenly postponed until last night after the statue of the martyred president had been hurriedly unveiled by Mrs. Longworth.

The speeches of the occasion were delivered last night in memorial hall.

The crowd was so large and cramped that it got beyond control and the shrieking of women and children who were caught in the crush, rapidly worked the crowd into a frenzy.

Many women fainted and were carried out of the crowd by the police. Mrs. Eliza Louisa Mahan and a negro were trampled on and had to be removed in an ambulance. Both will recover.

Throughout the exciting scene Mrs. Longworth remained cool and self-possessed, but afterwards she said that it was the worst crush she had ever seen.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth had an exciting experience in escaping from the excited crowd. From the speakers' stand they went through a window overlooking the platform into the governor's office, but they were scarcely inside when the people began to surge through the doors from the corridors, and the office was quickly filled.

Congressman Longworth finally fought a way out for his wife from the capitol and across Broad street into the Outlook building. There they remained until the police cleared away for a carriage which took the congressman and his wife to the hotel. Later the Longworths took a train for Cincinnati.

The committee on arrangements had expected an enormous crowd but in view of the solemnity and dignity of the occasion the committee believed that the crowd would be easily kept in restraint. Under ordinary circumstances the police arrangements would have been adequate but the officers quickly found they were powerless to cope with the crowd. Tiers of seats had been constructed across the entire west front of the capitol with the speakers' stand in the center. Four thousand tickets were issued for these seats to invited guests, and all seats were taken.

The McKinley monument stands at the west entrance to the ground facing the street and the crowd was packed into this space between the speakers' stand and the monument. The exercises began at 2:30 o'clock.

As a band was playing an overture, women in the crowd next to the speakers' stand began to scream and cry for help on account of the crush. Several women fainted and were carried to the stand. Rev. Washington Gladden rose to deliver the invocation, but he had spoken only a few sentences when the roar of voices forced him to stop.

Gov. Harris then attempted to quiet the crowd. "Keep back," he shouted. "You are crushing the people in front to death."

The governor's voice could not be heard twenty feet away on account of the din. The commotion then became so alarming that those on the stand asked Mrs. Longworth to come forward in the hope that a glimpse of her might satisfy the crowd.

She came to the front of the stand and the crush became almost a stampede. It was then decided to unveil the statue at once. Mrs. Longworth pulled a ribbon, which drew aside the drape covering the statue. A man who stood on another's shoulder grasped the ribbons and they were quickly torn into fragments by the seekers. The crush was stopped for a few minutes but as Mrs. Longworth sat down it was renewed and she again went to the front of the platform and bowed to the throng. The committee on arrangements having decided to defer the address until evening allowed Mrs. Longworth to retire from the platform and announce the change of program.

The crowd then dispersed. The program of exercises was carried out at memorial hall last night. The immense hall was filled with people. The speakers' stand was at the front. The exercises were held in the hall. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to have the exercises held in the hall.

Justice Day spoke as follows: "In the history of the world, a massacre of good will and kindness yet fresh on his lips, men and people who delighted to testify that civilization and appreciation which was the result of faith and unswerving devotion. He was called to earth for no other reason than that in his person he represented the head of the nation and stood for liberty, regulated by law, and not for that individual license which knows no respect for the laws of God or man."

So gentle, kind and true had been this life that not even his statue could do justice to him. With this sentiment, what might be said of the man who has, then stands revealed. With so much to make his life, this gentleman did not take to the sunken can. Looking forward to retirement in the home he loved, sure of the affection of his countrymen and the respect of the world, looking to the hand of his loved companion who would have had ever been the most purpose of his life, and whose returning strength had made the last summer one of his brightest, he entered the shadow of death with no murmur at his fate, leaving on the road and staff which had comforted his fathers, and as he had lived, in humble submission to the will of God.

"The life of this countryman, the hand of his loved companion who would have had ever been the most purpose of his life, and whose returning strength had made the last summer one of his brightest, he entered the shadow of death with no murmur at his fate, leaving on the road and staff which had comforted his fathers, and as he had lived, in humble submission to the will of God."

The memory grows brighter with the years. He lives in the beneficence of his example at every hour where succeeding generations shall recount the strength and beauty of his character and tell again the story of his life.

THE FIREMEN

ELECTED CHIEF COLEMAN OF WORCESTER PRESIDENT.

WORCESTER, Sept. 14. The final session of the Massachusetts State Firemen's convention was held in Association hall this morning. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President, Chief George S. Coleman of Worcester; First Vice-President, E. A. Leonard of Taunton; Second Vice-President, Captain A. W. Adams of Worcester; delegate to convention of International association of the firemen, Chief George S. Coleman of Worcester; Sergeant at arms, Chief T. O. Williams of Hingham.

An address by Rev. Allan Hudson of Brockton, was a feature of the day's work. The session was adjourned at 12 o'clock.

After a trolley ride about the city, the delegates sat at a banquet in Mechanics hall at 2 o'clock. Covers were laid for six hundred.

Well Worth Trying. W. H. Brown, the popular pension attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt., says: "Next to a pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills. It writes: 'They keep my family in splendid health.' Quick cure for Headache, Constipation and Biliousness. 25c. Guaranteed at Goodale's and Fells & Burkinshaw's drug stores."

BABE WAS KILLED

Runaway Carriage Hit by Car

NEWBURYPORT, Sept. 14. A car, which left West Woburn about five minutes before yesterday afternoon found for Newburyport and Dedham ran into and overturned a baby carriage on Washington street, near Myrtle, throwing the infant to the track and severing the head from the body.

The car was running at its usual rate of speed. To the right of the track was a row of trees and shrubbery, which concealed a roadway leading from the nearby house of Louis Selzer, a Russian. The horse stands a little off Washington street on a high hill.

A boy and a little girl were pushing their brother down hill, letting the carriage run free at intervals. The carriage got away, running onto the track.

Before the motorman knew what had happened the car struck the carriage, hurling it a long distance. The child went under the car and its head and one arm were torn off.

11TH ANNIVERSARY

OF NEW YORK CHALK AND PUT COMPANY.

The growth and prosperity of our city's business houses are always of interest to our readers, and particularly so at the present time are the improvements made and to be made by the New York Chalk & Put Co., 12 John street.

For the past twenty years this concern has achieved a well deserved place in the confidence of the people of the city of Lowell as well as of the surrounding counties.

It was in September, 1880, that the late John A. Storey commenced business at the above location, under the firm name New York Chalk & Put Co., and with the time of his death three years ago, he enjoyed an enviable reputation for his keen and straightforward business methods.

A few months before Mr. Storey's death he sold the business to his brother Charles R. Storey of Brockton, Mass., who, with Fred Webb of Fall River. They placed the business under the management of Mr. Walter H. Emmott, who is well and favorably known here, having been born and educated in Lowell.

The combined efforts of Mr. Emmott and the firm, with their prestige in the market, as large dealers, having at that time four other stores, built up a still larger business than the store ever enjoyed, and now they are to become one of the most prominent, in fact the largest chalk and put stores outside of Lowell. Having leased their present location for a long term of years, and purchased the Ayer block adjoining it, they propose taking down the partitions and remodeling the front and making it into a large, modern and in every way, up-to-date and attractive store. The staff of help which has always been cordial and pleasant is to be increased, and a larger and better stock of goods than ever will be carried. When this enterprising concern has made this change, which will be during the coming summer, there will be no need of any woman, with the well-tare of her city of nearly going out of town for her clothing as we understand this concern buys of the best houses in the country. They are considered the largest dealers east of New York, having, with the enlargements here, five large specialty stores. Up to the present time Lowell has been their smallest, but by this move they hope to place it on par with their other cities.

An interesting feature from a Lowell point of view is, that the heads of the five different stores are graduates of the state of John street.

The five stores, with their locations are as follows: Charles & Webb, of Brockton, R. I.; New York Chalk & Put Co., Fall River; Chert & Co., New Bedford; Storey & Co., Brockton and the New York Chalk & Put Co., John street, this city.

GOING TO CUBA

SECRETARY TAFT AND BACON TO MAKE TRIP.

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 15.—After a protracted conference with Secretaries Taft, Bacon and Bonaparte, representing the war, state and navy departments, President Roosevelt last night addressed an important communication to Cuba and arranged to send Secy. Taft and Secy. Bacon to that island on Sunday to make a thorough investigation of conditions there and lend their influence to restore peace.

The communication is addressed to the Cuban minister to the United States, Senor Quesada. It is an impassioned plea to Cuba to realize her responsibility as a self-governing republic and to restore peace in the island. Her attention is called to the fact that the United States bears to the island and the certainty that such responsibility will necessarily be exercised should peace not be preserved.

The president says he has certain information that the peace of the island is now menaced and that American property has been destroyed.

Secretaries Taft and Bacon will leave for Cuba Sunday. They will go by rail to Key West, Fla., and from there the journey to Havana will be completed on a naval vessel, probably the cruiser USS Maine.

The conference which resulted in the Cuban declaration began at Sagamore Hill shortly after three o'clock yesterday afternoon and continued until 10 o'clock last night. At its conclusion secretaries Taft, Bonaparte and Bacon left for New York and will go to Washington today.

Secretary Taft said as he left Oyster Bay that he had no idea as to the length of his visit to Cuba. He intimated that there would be no haste in the investigation which would be made there. Aside from this information no discussion will be divulged by those attending the conference, the statement being made that the letter of the president was intended to cover the whole Cuban situation so far as it was desirable to do so in the public print.

Sen. Albert Beveridge of Indiana, a member of the senate committee on Cuban relations, also participated in the conference.

ARBITRATION BOARD SETTLES LONGSHOREMEN'S TROUBLE.

BOSTON, Sept. 16. All danger of a general strike of longshoremen and other freight handlers in this city is said to be averted by the decision made last night by the board of arbitration which was given authority to settle the differences. The decision of the board states that the strike of the longshoremen at the Metropolitan Steamship company's wharf was in violation of all trade union principles and that the complication which threatened to develop into a general strike was due to the fact that the strikers had declined two previous offers of arbitration.

There were 192 men who struck at the Metropolitan wharves several weeks ago because of the discharge of some union men and other grievances.

How's Your Hair?

Falls & Burkinshaw Announce That They Have at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Lowell that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the preparation of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M.D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this preparation was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow bald on bald heads, even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Mrs. Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith avenue, Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff, scales, or any scalp troubles, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Sold by Falls & Burkinshaw, 415 Middlesex street, Lowell, Mass. Price 50c.

DEATH OF RANDLETT

May Change the Laws of Canada

In Regard to the Practice of Christian Science — Verdict of a Coroner's Jury in the Case

The following relative to R. S. Todd, the Christian Scientist of Peterborough, Ontario, at whose house Arthur N. Randlett of this city died on August 9, is from the Evening Examiner of September 11.

Mr. Poussette, appearing on behalf of Mr. Todd, stated that from reports of the previous investigations it was easily seen that the evidence for the defence was not as satisfactory as that brought out as it should have been. He could see that the Crown had diligently attempted to show that the death of Randlett was due to the treatment by Christian Science methods. Healing practices conducted by the sect had been used and he thought it a pre-arranged and unfortunate that the death of the gentleman should be attributed to Mr. Todd, any more than the death of a medical doctor's patient should be attributed to him. In view of these assertions he felt that the jury should hear Mr. Todd and the treatment he exercised in dealing with his patient.

The coroner emphatically refused, and stated in strongest language that the jury had heard enough not from Mr. Todd. His previous statements that he had offered up prayers to the Almighty and to Mrs. Eddy for $5 per week had been heard and he considered that to listen to it again for even one minute would be more than useless. It was clear to him that Randlett had been taken into the house of Mr. Todd merely to be robbed of his money. He objected to listening to him for a moment, and even intimated that insanity was the cause of the belief in which they were led to harbor.

Mr. Poussette thought the coroner had gone beyond his jurisdiction when he spoke so vociferously against Christian Science. The matter of importance to be considered, he said, was the cause of the death of the deceased, and not whether the doctrine was right or wrong.

These people, he remarked, conscientiously believe in the doctrine of healing by divine power as well as in the ages long gone by, and thought the coroner had no right to denounce their belief so strongly.

"Are they composita mentis?" asked the coroner.

"Well, it's a question whether the coroner is composita mentis, or whether they are," returned the counsel. "They believed that it was just as reasonable for men to heal the sick by divine power now as well as in the days of

OPERA HOUSE

George Ade made the country laugh when he wrote his "Fables in Slang" and then he decided to keep them laughing and he wrote "The Sultan of Sulu" and the "County Chairman" previous stories and he set down and wrote "The College Widow" a four-act frolic which last night kept a big audience on the broad grin at the Lowell Opera House. "The College Widow" vies with "Strongheart" as being the greatest college play ever presented. It's a touch of pathos in "Strongheart" which makes some say, "Why don't it end the other way," but in "The College Widow" it is to laugh from curtain to curtain and all the way home and that's what the audience at the Opera House did last evening, and it's a 10 to 1 shot that two audiences will do it again today for Messrs. Cahn and Grant believe in giving all the public an opportunity to see this best of plays and hence booked it for three performances.

Billy Bolton, the son of a railroad president, who is in love with "Bligham," a rival college to Atwater, in which the scene of the play is laid, is deposited by his father under the care of a tutor, who intends placing him in "Hingham."

The first act is shown as the opening of a fall term at Atwater, where the prospect of a good football team is sadly lacking.

Through the aid of the College Widow, the beautiful daughter of the president, "Billy" is enticed to remain at Atwater after his father has taken his well, and to take the position of half back on the "Varsity" team.

His father who goes abroad hears of his son's backsliding in time to come back home to Atwater, where "Billy" is in the act of winning the annual football game from "Hingham."

After the game Bolton the senior explains to "Billy" how he has come to his present position, and rather strong sentiments, and still rather guide in his son's achievement, finally "comes around" upon finding that the "College widow" really is in love with his son.

The play is well staged, and the characters of the college town are well portrayed, including the president and freshman, and the giant center cut out from the faculty, who is taking a snap course in art.

Hallett Thompson and Florence Huntington take the leading roles in excellent manner and they are supported by a strong and evenly balanced company.

"AT CRIPPLE CREEK"

Rocky Mountain life with its exciting scenes of the pioneer days in the Western mining camps will be portrayed in a convincing manner at the Lowell Opera House, Monday, September 12. "At Cripple Creek" is the title of this most picturesque of western plays. The wild scenery in the heart of the Rockies forms a magnificent background for any play, especially a melodrama, and when the field's versatile art plays upon the feelings of an audience and scenes of such surprising beauty, the effect is certainly most thrilling. "At Cripple Creek" abounds in splendid heroism and scenes of sparkling comedy and quaint drollery. The first act culminates in the exciting rescue of three innocent girls from the clutches of Martin Mason, a vile half-breed and keeper of a saloon called the Temple of David. The second act opens at Hill Canyon, near Joe Mayfield's mine. A pretty scene occurs here between the child Tatoo and Joe, who is the owner of the "Last Dollar" mine and champion of innocence at "Cripple Creek." While the stirring escape of Joe Mayfield from the death trap laid for him in the "Last Dollar" mine and his thrilling rescue of Belle Gordon makes the third act one of the most novel and thrilling seen upon the melodramatic stage. The fourth act reveals Joe Mayfield's home on the eve of his wedding with Belle Gordon. Stage sets of exciting beauty and novel effects enhance the strongly dramatic scenes. A cast of unusual strength has been secured by the management, making "At Cripple Creek" at once a production an artistic in interpretation as it is magnificent in setting.

"ARE YOU A MASON?"

The story of "Are You a Mason?" is one of the most laughable ever utilized as the groundwork for a modern comedy. Leo Dietrichstein has undoubtedly made in this adaptation from the German the most successful farce comedy ever seen on the American stage. Although it has been played constantly in this country for the past five years to ever increasing business, it is as new and as enjoyable as it was when first produced. It is one of those plays that never grow old and which never lose their hold on the theatre-going public. If anything it is more popular today than ever before. It is certainly drawing larger audiences than it ever has in the past. The company engaged is the most capable ever seen in this play and the production is in every way as excellent as "Are You a Mason?" will be the attraction at the Opera House next Tuesday evening, Sept. 12th.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Some people think there is nothing that equals a good vaudeville performance, and that is why they like Hathaway's. But nobody objects to having something better, therefore the pretty playhouse should be a popular place next week, for the programme offered is one of special interest. There are no vaudeville acts, no acts put on by "fillers," but everything given is entertaining to the limit. At the head of the bill are Edmund Day & Company, in Mr. Day's comedy, "The Sheriff." The scene is a small railroad station in Arizona, with a pretty girl, Polly Hope, in charge. She is engaged to "Bud" Lane, the express agent, and the agent, "the sheriff," "Slim" Hovver, is also in love with her. The agent loses his job, and in desperation, steals $3000 of the company's money, to enable him to buy a farm in Kentucky and marry his sweetheart. The sheriff proposes to the girl and is refused. He discovers his rival's crime, but out of generosity refrains from arresting him, and instead loans him $1000 to help him toward securing the farm. Mr. Day makes an interesting and lovable character of the breezy western sheriff, and the net is brilliant or bright lines. Patricia Winston, an attractive young woman, is a winsome Polly, and Mr. Watson plays the lovers part effectively. The act is attractively staged, and the true western atmosphere prevails throughout the sketch. C. Grant Gardner and Marie Stoddard will dispense an extra palatable brand of nonsense, including vocal and instrumental music, dancing, impersonations and mimicry. Miss Stoddard, prior to her advent into vaudeville, was a legitimate actress, and an elocutionist of note, but when the country became over run with the so-called mimics of famous stage-folk, she conceived the idea of imitating them, which she has done with marked success. Mr. Gardner's selections on the cornet, piano and Swiss bells are very pleasing. Charles Harris is one of the most infectious of laughing success, in his comedy conception "The Lamp Post Inspector," which is a scream throughout. Mr. Harris's impersonation of the funny old maid is irresistibly comic. Johnson, Daymont and Lereba, are a great trio of acrobatic comedians. Their sketch, which is entitled, "The Football Player and the Farmer," is excessively funny, and the movement is provided in guaranteed to please. A new feature from any theatre matter how rarely trifled. The McDonald Sisters are two pretty girls who sing and dance, and they do both charmingly. Good lucking is always a popular feature of a vaudeville show, and the appearance of the kumblers will be well timed. A new feature of the art of catfishing for any theatre, and other difficult branches of juggling. "The dancing act," Leonard Kane, gives a remarkably graceful exhibition of intricate and pleasing dancing steps. New and interesting athletic stunts, complete the show. There are daily matinees at various prices are 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. Evening prices are 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The third week of the Seventh Broadway stock company will open on Monday under most auspicious circumstances with the production of "Captain Swift," the great Madison Square success, a powerful drama in four acts set abounding in lighter scenes and situations that relieve it of any heaviness. It is Mr. DeBogay's idea in the selection of plays to give the patrons of the theatre the best plays to be found on any stage and yet to give them in variety so as not to hold to one particular class of plays. Ordinarily this would be a difficult proposition and can only be done with an exceptionally strong company, one in which every member is talented and versatile and all who have witnessed the performances of this season's company will agree that the members are both. The first week saw "The Palace of the King" dealing with scenes about the throne and monarchial intrigues. The second week saw a radical departure in the presentation of a southern romance, while next

KATE CLYDE ON TRAINING HUSBANDS

The Patient, Griselda Type of Wife Now Looked Down Upon—Husband and Child Both Raw Material to Be Molded

HERE is no use in talking, women have changed utterly. It is no longer considered a virtue to stand your husband's faults. It is not even considered the proper thing, and the patient Griselda type of lady, far from being admired, is apt to be looked down upon by her neighbors.

I know a woman of this type, poor thing! She absolutely slaves for her husband. She makes him fine platted shirts such as he would have to pay the highest prices for at the haberdashery. She works initials that are miracles of fineness on his pocket handkerchiefs, scribbles and saves to buy him silk socks, and all the time she wears the plainest of garments and hats, palatially home-made. They have no longer a virtue to stand only her husband's faults, but a year and a half, and yet he goes off on "business trips" whenever it is possible. He flirts outrageously with every girl he meets, sends them bouquets and bonbons and yet is so mean that he will not allow his wife enough money to have a decent maid, and often she is forced to do her own housework. Lately, indeed, he has pleaded reduced circumstances so successfully that she has taken up her old profession of giving singing lessons again, the proceeds of which she turns over religiously to him.

She directs his ambitions.

Her up-to-date friends surveyed her with amazement. They had read of such wives in books, but had never met them in real life. They began to wonder at and admire a woman who could be so saintly and unselfish in her conduct toward her husband, and she will win him through kindness. "Who knows?" the less sophisticated said.

But now that she has become a hopeless drudge to a man who does not always treat her well before friends, even, there is only one verdict against her—that she is a failure as a wife and lacking in self respect and proper pride.

This is certainly a great "educational" age. We educate our husbands and make them what they ought to be, and we educate our children to be what we wish them.

The old fashioned wife "stood" things. The old fashioned mother believed in heredity. The up-to-date woman considers both husband and child as raw material to be molded and put into disturbance or friction. It just came to pass, that's all. And he will never be the great mogul again.

The modern mother believes very little in heredity. The phrase, "Well, you can't blame the boy for putting off things until tomorrow—his father was just like that," would mean nothing to her save that the woman who uttered it was an idiot.

She proceeds from the baby's birth to give it the best constitution, the best disposition and the best brain possible, and she does this largely by preventing the opposite elements from gaining a foothold.

It is now conceded by doctors that nearly all the ill manhood and womanhood suffer from are the result of improper care in childhood. They say that heredity cuts mighty little figure (if it does any at all) compared with the deadening influence of the old style mother who used to spend her time fashioning elaborate garments for her child, leaving its mind and body occasionally untrained, while she hoped it would not take after its Aunt Susan or its Uncle John, not to speak of its father

No, indeed! The up-to-date mother, even if she be very rich, dresses her baby as simply as possible, even coarsely. But she puts all her attention toward making him strong mentally and physically, so he may be hand-capped as little as possible in the battle of life.

She strengthens his weak points and directs his ambitions so that when he reaches manhood he is strong and well balanced, a credit to her and a comfort to the woman he marries.

But, dear me! This is certainly my serious day!

I understand that if you want to be most very awfully swell next winter you will have a costume of silver gray and brown combined.

Goodness knows that sounds homely enough to be ultra smart, but it's going to be a heap unbecoming to the pallid brown haired women, who are in the majority when it comes to types. It seems to me a florid complexion with either jetty black, or fiery red locks will be needed to carry off this trying color scheme from dear Paris.

The shadow plaids are being so run into the "My good man, do you ground that I know who I am?"

don't believe we shall see many of them next winter, and that's rather a pity, because artistic plaids make very smart cold weather costumes.

The parrot matching the hat will still be used on warm September days, but it will be supplemented by the little coat having changeable collars and cuffs of taffeta to match the hat and the white illusion veil, also decorated with spots to match.

These collars and cuffs have stitched or scalloped edges, and they button right on to the coat, so you can have several sets and change them around to match your different hats.

There comes a time in every dignified man's life when he receives something of a shock, and the following story is told of Bishop Potter:

He was suddenly called to New York on Sunday on very important business. He was staying in the country at the time and promptly rushed down to the station, only to find out that no more trains left that day, the railway being a small branch, one of little importance.

"Is there no way of my getting to New York?" he panted, out of breath with his rushing.

"None that I know of" quoth the station master, bowing a straw and regarding him indifferently.

"Well, can't you get me a special train, or at least an engine? I can't help the expense. I must reach New York tonight!"

"None. It can't be done."

"But, my good man, do you know who I am? I'm Bishop Potter!"

The rustic took the straw from his mouth and eyed the reverend gentleman up and down.

"I don't care if you were the superintendent of the road," he roared, "you couldn't get a train out of here on Sunday." And with that he went into his little shack and slammed the door.

THE GIRL WHO SUCCEEDS.

She has so much to do that she has no time for morbid thoughts.

She never thinks for a moment that she is not attractive nor forgets to look as charming as possible.

She is considerate of the happiness of others, and it is reflected back to her as from a looking glass.

She never permits herself to grow old, for by cultivating all the graces of heart, brain and body, age does not come to her.

She awakens cheerfully in the morning and closes her eyes thankfully at night.

She believes that life has some serious work to do, that the serious work lies very close to the homely, everyday duties and that kind words cost nothing.

She is always willing to give suggestions that will help some less fortunate one over the bad places in life's journey.

She is her own sweet, unaffected, womanly self. Therein lies the secret of her popularity—of her success.

The New Maid—Yes, mum! Thanked, mum! Yes, mum! I told him it couldn't be you, as you was about fifty!

Mrs. Passay—And while you're taking your afternoon off you'd better look out for a new place!

WHAT THE AGE OF FAKERY HAS DONE FOR THE FOOD WE EAT

HAILE to the age of fakery, supreme ruler of all—politics, press and pulpit, law, medicine, society, economics and morality! The nineteenth century, slopping over even into the twentieth, will go down in history as the fake century. Everything that can be cheapened, twisted and strained to enable a man at peril of his soul's salvation to put one dollar into trade and get back forty has been thus cheapened and twisted and strained. What does a man care for putting his fake soul in pawn when he thinks he can redeem it cheaply by investing a few of his fake gotten millions in philanthropy or fake education?

What made me think of this is reading what the women of the Consumers' league and the women's clubs did to force the passage of the pure food bill through a persistently holdback congress. It was mighty interesting reading, I assure you, especially as it included a list of those senators and representatives who fought the pure food bill tooth and nail. You would be surprised at that list, really. It included especially senators away up in the high seats as to their social and religious standing. They stood for "vested interests"—interests vested in bad line dyed tomatoes, deodorized fat eggs and literally embalmed beef.

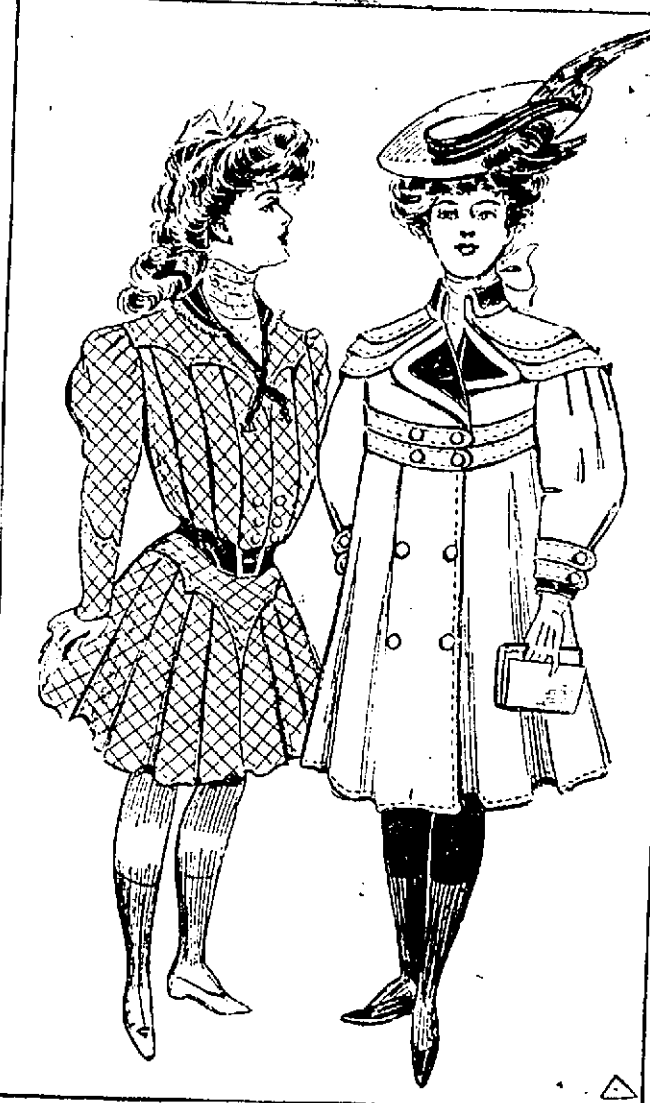

Lucky for that antique chaplain 103 years old who says he owes his long life to correct habits, religion and good whisky, that he was born and had his start before the fake century got under full swing. If he hadn't—if he had got his bringing up on such whisky as many men drink today—he would have been done for long ere he reached his prime.

May 21, when the General Federation of Women's Clubs was meeting at St. Paul, one day in the midst of a session a telegram was brought to Mrs. Miller of Columbia, Mo., chairman of the federation's pure food committee. She conferred at once with the president, Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, and Mrs. Decker interrupted the order of business and said Mrs. Miller had an announcement to make. Mrs. Miller rose, telegram in hand, and said:

"I have just received a message from Washington that the pure food bill is dying in the house of representatives. There is not a mother or home maker in this country who is not interested in the passage of this bill. No measure of more vital interest to the home has ever been presented to the national legislature. If we are to do anything to save this measure we must act at once."

Well, it was not ten minutes till a telegram was on its way to Chairman Hephurn at Washington asking him to read in the lower house of congress a resolution from the federation, which represented 500,000 women, earnestly urging the legislators to pass that pure food bill at once, in the interest of the health of the people and of the international reputation of the American people for honesty.

At the same time wires were kept hot between St. Paul and towns all over the Union telling stay at home clubwomen to send to the national house telegrams of peremptory insistence on the passage of that bill. Nearly every clubwoman who knew a congressman bestirred herself and fired over the Union telling stay at home clubwomen to send to the national house telegrams of peremptory insistence on the passage of that bill. Nearly every clubwoman who knew a congressman bestirred herself and fired into him telegrams declaring he must vote for that bill or take the consequences. Well, at the close of the Washington show, just before the long session of the Fifty-ninth congress gave its last kick, mark you, that pure food bill went through with a hurrah!

Now it's up to the men, our rulers, to see that it is enforced.

The Consumers' league, Mrs. Frederick Nathan, its president, at the head of the movement, has for years been fighting the battle for pure food. Many a forceful speech Mrs. Nathan has driven home in the cause of dying babies and the puny children of the poor in cities, half starved and poisoned through and through by the adulterated cheap foods manufactured for them by gentlemen of high financial standing.

Mrs. Nathan is a brilliant and witty speaker. At a banquet memorable in New York she was unexpectedly called on for a speech. She talked awhile, then amid loud applause and cries of "Go on! Go on!" she stopped, saying she could have done much better as an after dinner orator if she had only had trousers pockets to put her hands into while she talked!

Miss Alice Lakey is the special agent employed by the Consumers' league to go among the people and by means of object lectures show them what they daily eat under the delusion that they are taking nourishing food. Salicylic acid, chalk, baking soda, formaldehyde, which is actually the fluid used by undertakers to embalm dead bodies; aniline dyes, borax—these are some of the pleasant substances we swallow. As to borax in its various compounds, the prospect is that an individual may get a whole twenty mule borax team load into his insides if he lives long enough.

Not long ago a bachelor man who felt lonely thought it would suggest a girl around if he sent to the confectioner's and ordered 15 cents' worth of ice cream. The brand of the maker is one known and advertised all over the eastern states. The bachelor man could not eat all the cream he ordered—maybe he would have eaten still less of it if he had known what it was made of. The left over delicacy remained in the plate all night and melted. In the morning there was in the bottom of the plate a greasy substance that suggested the stuff you pipelap your white shoes with. Perhaps it was cornstarch, perhaps worse.

As ghastly frauds as any are perpetrated in cheap candies bought by children of the very poor. Miss Lakey found that a "cocoanut strawberry" selling for a cent, was glucose and aniline dye, nothing else. United States government experts analyzed her wares for her, so there could be no mistake. If you buy cheap so called "chocolate" creams the chances are much more than even that for this acid is advertised to "preserve" meats sound for weeks. Some time ago a few links of a popular brand of sausage were subjected to analysis in the matter of their enticing color. Enough aniline dye was found in them to color a pair of man's woolen stockings bright red. Somehow I shall never taste sausage again without thinking of eating woolen socks, so great is the power of imaginative association on the human mind.

Our faithful government expert: have also made critical examination of divers jams and pickles. The result is that some of the jams and jellies are found to have in them not a trace of the fruit of which they are labeled to be the "pure" representatives. Miss Lakey exhibits in her lectures tiny squares of outing flannel colored radiant crimson, purple, green and yellow from the aniline dyes put into the so called fruit preparations.

"How beautiful they are!" exclaimed a woman who looked on the brilliant squares of cotton cloth. Then she added in an awe stricken voice, "And are we all dyed inside like that?"

Get rich quick? Of course they do, the manufacturers of these stuffs, and ride about in their automobiles like aristocrats. But when the American mothers are once thoroughly aware of the manner in which their children are being slowly poisoned and starved by adulterated foods then will come retribution. Perhaps the General Federation of Women's Clubs will demand and obtain that the manufacturers of these villainous alleged eatables be sentenced to live for a term of years on their own jam and sausages, with an admiring public watching the animals feed behind bars!

Some of the states have found an immediate way to check the progress of this national dishonesty by enacting stiff pure food laws. The great meat trust has caught the situation very quickly in such cases and sends into the pure food law states only meat products that are specially and hygienically prepared.

Meantime, if we cannot afford to buy anything but cheap and nasty food delicacies let us live on homemade cornbread and fresh fruit.

TEA TABLE LORE.

If a person accidentally receives two spoons in a cup of tea she will be married within a year.

A tea leaf floating in the cup of an unmarried lady is a sign that she has an admirer. If on this occasion the tea is stirred quickly and the spoon is then held upright in the middle of the cup, and the tea leaf is attracted to the spoon and clings to it, the admirer would be sure to call that day, but if the tea leaf goes to the side of the cup he will not be expected so soon.

SHE WINS DOWER

Mrs. Gibson to Get $400,000

WILL COULD NOT BE FOUND

Made Bride While Husband Was Dying

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—News was received here yesterday that the famous contest over the missing will of John McCormick Gibson, millionaire and owner of some of the most valuable blocks of real estate in Cincinnati, had ended in the triumph of Mrs. Henrietta Cecilia Gibson, nee Wolf, of Providence, who is now in Europe.

The settlement gives Mrs. Gibson a sum estimated at $400,000 for her dower. She is one of the daughters of the late Benno Wolf, a wealthy real estate and business man of Providence.

The romantic circumstances attending the courtship and marriage of Miss Wolf by Mr. Gibson aroused widespread interest at the time, and this was intensified by the death of the bridegroom a few days later and the mysterious disappearance of his will, which was supposed to have been executed on his death bed at Asheville, N. C.

In this will, which was located, the following sentence summarizes Mr. Gibson's wishes: "To my dearly beloved wife I give all."

When she was unable to produce the original will Mr. Gibson's relatives here contested her claims, and it was reported that she was not even entitled to dower rights.

Mr. Gibson's first wife was a Miss Goodhue of this city, who perished in the hotel Windsor fire, New York, on St. Patrick's day, 1853. He first met Miss Wolf at Saratoga a year or two later, and it was a case of love at first sight.

The wedding date was set, but the prospective groom was taken ill and went south to Asheville to recuperate. As the disease progressed and there appeared to be little hope for him, Miss Wolf was told of his condition and hurried to his bedside, accompanied by her sister, Miss Alice Wolf.

With her appearance on the scene, the sick man began to show signs of improvement. He insisted upon a wedding immediately, and the ceremony was performed on Nov. 1, 1903. Mr. Gibson continued to improve apparently, but had a relapse about a week later and died on Nov. 8.

Mrs. Henrietta Cecilia (Wolf) Gibson sailed for Europe last Tuesday with her sister on the steamship Carolina, to be gone about three months.

Mrs. Gibson is a talented musician and linguist, a charming conversationalist and generally prepossessing in appearance.

AFTER 32 YEARS

Man Finally Locates His Parents

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—After a search of 32 years, Edward R. Alexander, who ran away from his home in New York when a boy of 11, has found his parents and brothers and sisters in Dorchester, Mass.

Alexander is now a lightkeeper on Long Island, Portland harbor, but he has been sailor, soldier and fisherman, and has made two voyages around the world.

When he ran away over 30 years ago as a stowaway on a fishing schooner, his father was a poor working man in New York. Today he is in affluence, and has nearly reached the allotted age of three score and ten.

Although he has really found his father, the younger man has not seen his parents yet, since it is impossible for the son to leave his responsible position at the light station, but the reunion will take place next Sunday, when the parents and brothers and sisters will all come to Long Island.

It was by a mere accident that Mr. Alexander discovered the whereabouts of his parents. A travelling man from Boston happened to be speaking of an Alexander family in Dorchester.

The descriptions seemed right. The younger man wrote, but at first received no answer, for twice his parents had been lied by impostors who offered to find their boy for a "consideration."

Edward Alexander, after his first stowaway trip, made two voyages around the world, was in the Spanish war and was skipper of a fishing schooner. He was finally married and settled down on Long Island.

BACHELOR GIRLS. The first meeting of the season of the Bachelor Girls' club was held at the home of Miss Ivy Kow, 11 Princeton street, last night. The business meeting lasted for about an hour and later a social time was spent. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Miss Jessie Frost; vice president, Miss Ivy Kow; secretary, Miss Harriet Kew; treasurer, Miss Grace Morrison; sergeant-at-arms, Miss Ethel Oskood.

Harold Mehan has returned from a four months' vacation spent at Crescent Park, Providence, New York and Jersey City.

Office of Superintendent of Streets. Notice is hereby given that the city is about to smooth pave Moody street from Thiden street to James street. In consequence of which it is desirable that all persons who contemplate digging up the street for the purpose of making sewer, gas or water connections or for any other purpose do so at once, as under the provisions of the city ordinances no permit will be given to any person to disturb the surface of said street for a period of five years after said improvement is completed except as otherwise provided in the ordinance.

FOR DEFENDANT

DECISION ARISING FROM UNDERTAKER'S DISPUTE.

A case that had to do with the death of little Aurora Lambert, daughter of Theodore Lambert of 115 Ford street, was heard by Judge Hadley in the civil session of police court yesterday afternoon. The little girl's father had first given Undertaker Albert the order for recovering the body from the church, and later, upon the failure of Mr. Albert to recover it on the first night after the accident, Mr. Lambert gave Mr. Archambault orders to look for it, without notifying Mr. Albert of the fact. Mr. Albert and his men continued their search, finding the body on the second night after the drowning on August 3.

Yesterday's case was an action of contract to recover for services rendered.
